Some Dull History
The Foolish Greeks
One Powerful Man
Hiram Johnson's Value

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1922, by Star Company.

Senator Lenroot, very earnest, honest public servant, takes a wrong view of some things affecting States other than his own.

He protests, without good cause, against the tariff secured by Hiram Johnson for the important products of California. Senator Lenroot says in his denunciation: "The average tariff protection on all California by-products is 150 per cent."

What of it?

Why is not that a good thing of other States, as well as California? California's wealth comes from the ground, from mines, to a small extent, from fertile earth, beautiful orchards, to a much greater extent.

Wealth taken from earth is honest wealth, and it all means HUMAN LABOR. To protect California's products is simply to protect American labor, and of the most useful kind.

The wealth of California, constantly growing to be a hundred times greater than it is now, is part of United States wealth. There cannot be too much of that.

Hiram Johnson did make a savage and successful fight for the products of California. His individual force in the Senate is responsible for the protection California will have.

But Senator Lenroot need not sob over a few cents per pound tariff on almonds, for instance. When people buy California almonds they get clean and perfect almonds, grown by men and women that live happily in good homes, produced by labor well paid and independent.

California almond growers use automobiles, many of them made in Senator Lenroot's State. California cannot compete in labor cost with the Spanish almond grower, working his women and children on starvation wages, from dawn until dark, driving his miserable little donkey to market, with the almonds and their owner on the donkey's back.

Instead of attacking Hiram Johnson because his power in the Senate gives California deserved protection, Senator Lenroot should praise Johnson, as an example of what a powerful man can do for his State.

In addition to being a vigilant, constantly alert, efficient servant of California, Hiram Johnson is the best advertisement California ever had. The whole country knows him and recognizes his power. When New York, the biggest city, wanted protection from corporation rascals, trying to rob the poor through increased street car fares, New York's intelligent mayor went 3,000 miles and got Hiram Johnson to undertake the job of defending the citizens of New York. There has been no street car fare increase and there will not be any.

That is one reason why Wall Street papers, interested in the increase, hopefully predict Johnson's defeat at the coming California primaries. They predict it because they desire it.

You remember the famous election in Athens, more than 2000 years ago, when the citizens voted to decide what public man should be driven out. Each wrote the name of the man he did not like on an oyster shell, hence our word "ostracize." A Greek, unable to write, asked a fellow citizen to write for him on his voting shell the name of Aristides. It was Aristides himself, of whom the man, unwittingly, had asked the favor.

"Why do you want Aristides banished?" asked the great Greek. His might well ask. He had led his tribe, Antiochis, at the Battle of Marathon. It was he that persuaded the other tribe leaders to

Kline Says He Wrung Confessions From Wife and Bergen

CHALLENGED HIM TO DUEL IN DARK

Declares Attacker of Mrs. Kline Tried Treacherously to Kill Him

Edgewater, N. J., Aug. 26.—George Kline, movie location finder, was held on a murder charge today after he had given the authorities two versions of the shooting in his home last night of John Bergen, screen actor. Bergen, he said, admitted having attacked Mrs. Kline while they were in the Adirondacks several weeks ago.

At about the same time Mrs. Kline made a "confession" statement in which she said:

"I admitted to my husband that Bergen had attacked me. I did this after weeks of worry. I was frantic with the weight of my secret and simply had to tell him. When Bergen came to the house at our invitation last night I repeated my accusation in the presence of my husband and brothers, Lawrence and Thomas Scullion."

KLINE'S TWO STORIES.

Kline's first story, as reported by county police, was that he and Bergen were going upstairs to fight a duel when Bergen whipped out his pistol. Kline knocked the pistol from the actor's hand only to see him take out a black-jack, he said. Then Kline fired.

The second version, as Prosecutor Hart said Kline had told it to him, was that the men had gone to an upstairs room. Kline had given Bergen a pistol, kept one himself, and told the actor they were to fight a duel in the dark. As he reached for the chandelier to turn out the light, he saw Bergen point his pistol at him. He knocked it from the actor's hand, whereupon Bergen grasped his own gun, and it was

Ice Costs $2 a Ton; Public Pays $12

Here are some figures on the prices of ice at the different stages of its manufacture and distribution throughout Greater Boston:

	Per Ton
Cost of manufacture	$2.00
Selling price to refrigerator cars	3.50
Selling price to wholesale stores	7 to 9
Selling to housewives	12.00

Are you laughing?

If the humor hasn't reached you in the perusal of these figures, we will analyze them for you.

It costs the Ice Trust, which is charging Boston retail customers 60 cents a hundred pounds, or $12 a ton, just $2 to manufacture a ton of ice. That includes tools, labor, overhead and all the items of manufacture. The sale of 350 pounds, in other words, more than pays for the cost of making a ton.

Trust Delivers Ice to Wholesalers at Fair Profit; YOU Pay Ridiculous Price

Now.

To the various wholesale dealers, like the various meat companies and J. T. Connor Company, or Ginter, or any other business firm which deals with perishable foods, the Ice Trust delivers ice to the refrigerator cars and sells it at a profit of $1.50 a ton.

And that is a legitimate profit.

But on top of this at least some ice dealers short-weight you.

Three ice pedlars, caught red handed by the Advertiser in the act of short-weighting customers, will receive summonses to appear in court tomorrow.

One pedlar sold his customer 86 pounds on a 100-pound order. The other two pedlars sold their customers 39 pounds on a fifty-pound order.

But if the Ice Trust delivers ice to the various stores or stations of these wholesale companies, it charges from $7 to $9 a ton, claiming the additional cost is caused by transportation.

Now that, while it sounds improbable, may be possible.

Yet, when the Ice Trust delivers ice to you, Mrs. Boston Customer, it charges you $11 a ton.

And that is as ridiculous that it would make anybody laugh but you. You're paying for it.

The Ice Trust is in full control of its whole field, ranging from manufacture to distribution. So tight a hold has it on the manufacturing end, that there are no independent manufacturers.

Here in the way they deal with independent distributors.

One dealer started a route in a Boston suburb two years ago. By giving a fair weight at a lower price than the trust he managed to build up a fairly good business. Then the trust stepped in and cut the price even lower. But they cut it only in the district in which this dealer operated. WHY?

By Undercutting Honest Dealer's Prices, Trust Drives Him Out of Business

The result was that they took the most of this dealer's business away from him and finally bought him out at a low figure. And this is a typical incident. It happens every day.

Practically every ice company, aside from the small pedlars, is controlled by one company. And this company has also attempted to control the pedlars, by telling them to sell their ice at certain figures.

This paper is going to bring the price of ice down, but your co-operation is necessary.

Remember.

Order your ice by the weight, not by the price and see that you get what you order. If you think you are being cheated notify the sealer of weights and measures immediately.

2 Guilty, 2 Freed of 'Black Hand' Death

After a five weeks' trial, which was crowded with sensation and thrills, the Michael Scarpone or North End "Black Hand" murder case came to a dramatic close when the jury, after deliberating 20 hours, returned verdicts at 6:15 last night of not guilty in three indictments of first degree murder and of guilty in two indictments for murder in the second degree.

Joseph Simboli and Francesco Toscano were found not guilty of the first degree murder charged against them and were immediately released from custody.

Antonio Mascatti was found not guilty of first degree murder but guilty of murder in the second degree as an accessory before the fact.

Guiseppe Ansardo was found guilty of murder in the second degree. His counsel, Joseph Zottoli, moved for a new trial.

So tense was the interest of North End residents in the case and its verdict that it was deemed necessary to send strong supplementary forces of police into the district last night in anticipation of demonstrations.

Since Michael Scarpone was shot down ruthlessly in Unity street in the North End in January, one surprise after another has marked the pursuit of the persons believed responsible for the crime; the arrest of seven men who were later indicted

FRAZEE GIRL IS DESERTED

Train Porter Says Bertha Lies Ill on Rude Cot

POLICE START HUNT FOR HER

Mother Ready to Welcome Daughter Back to Home

Groton, Aug. 27.—A week ago the warmth of her mother's home, nestled Bertha Frazee, beautiful 16-year-old school girl of this village.

Then came her elopement with C. Herbert Eldridge, wealthy and married milkman of this town.

Tonight, on the eve of motherhood, according to her own story, she lies on the rude couch of an old negro washerwoman's humble shack in the outskirts of Toronto, deserted, beaten and abused by the father of her love-child, miles from home and friends, broken in health and spirit.

To the old negro mammy she told her story—told it to her, because the old colored woman was the only one in the world who would listen to her.

PORTER SEEKS POLICE.

The girl's story was repeated last night to Chief of Police Bartholomew J. Dowling of Groton, by Frank Hazzard, a colored porter on the Boston & Maine train operated between Boston and Toronto. When he reached Toronto a few days ago he called on his aunt, Mary Jones. There on the rude couch, he found Bertha Frazee, the girl who eloped with Eldridge from this city the first part of this week, following a conference with Eldridge's wife over the baby about to be born to the sixteen-year-old school girl, of which Eldridge was named as the father.

BRUTE, SAYS HAZZARD.

Upon their arrival at Montreal, Eldridge started to drink, and soon wound up in a drunken fit, the police chief was told. He beat her and abused her and, without explanation, he left the girl, deserted her in the strange city of Montreal, where she had neither friends nor money, so the porter related her remarks.

Over the road from Montreal to Toronto, 300 winding miles, she started to hike, the little girl who was about to become a mother. How and then she received some rides, but there was no offers of help. When she finally arrived at Toronto she was exhausted; her shoes were worn out to the soles of her feet—she, the girl who left on a honeymoon but a few days before.

She sought succor in Toronto but when she asked for bread, they gave her a stone. In her sheer desperation, she turned to the humble, rain-shackle dwelling of the old broken negro washerwoman, who remembering the beatitudes of the lowly Nazarene, took the girl in.

"Tell my mother, I am sorry," sobbed the girl. "Tell her I want

36 More Chances For 'Luckiest Fortune'

Here is Miss Edna M. Larson of Everett, who will wear a Peggy Paige gown. Are you next?

Advertiser to Present 36 More Gowns in Next 36 Days

Miss Edna M. Larson of 11 Kenwood road, Everett, is today's winner of the Peggy Paige gown in the Daily Advertiser's "luckiest fortune contest."

She had the luckiest fortune submitted and examined and was therefore picked as the day's winner.

Miss Larson takes the 14th gown. There are thirty-six yet to be won by "the luckiest fortune" before the fifty gowns offered by The Daily Advertiser are given away.

Thirty-six women will each get a Peggy Paige gown within the next thirty-six days. You may be one of them. Send in your name!

There follows the list of winners of gowns for every day in the last two weeks since the "luckiest fortune" contest opened.

Miss Larson was especially delighted to be a Peggy Paige winner, for—we're going to let you in on a secret, now—she is engaged! Which means a trousseau a little later on, and everyone knows that is the time a girl needs just loads of clothes. And a new Peggy Paige gown is an enviable addition to any trousseau, even that of a society bud.

When notified of her good fortune, she said:

"I can't believe it—it seems too good to be true. And perhaps I won't be able to use an unexpected costume on my honeymoon! After seeing the photographs in the Advertiser of some of the Peggy Paige gowns I could not resist filling out a coupon and sending it, but at the same time, not daring to hope for such good luck."

ARRAIGNS 'MONEY BARONS'

Ford Declares Them Responsible for General Industrial Tie-Up

"THEY MANIPULATE LABOR UNIONS"

"Strikes Will End When People, Cold and Hungry, Take Drastic Action"

By ALLEN F. BENSON.
Special Correspondent of Universal Service.

Copyright, 1922, by Universal Service.

Detroit, Aug. 26.—Henry Ford today made one of the great strategic movements that have come to be associated with his career as a manufacturer. Wishing to deliver a body blow at the Street Trust and the coal profiteers, he announced that, on September 16, all of his plants would close down.

This will throw out of work 80,000 men in Detroit and more than two million others in industries that furnish him with supplies.

Industry on the country over must "throw up its hands in surrender" within a few weeks, if the rail and coal strikes continue, Ford declared in announcing the decision of the Ford Motor Company to close its plants because of the fuel situation.

WARNS OF DRASTIC ACTION.

Mr. Ford held financial interests responsible for the industrial tie-up, declaring the "money barons" were manipulating the labor unions, and that public officials, State and national, were impotent in the crisis.

The strikes would end, he continued, "when the majority of the people are cold and hungry enough to resort to drastic action."

Continuance of these disturbances to the economic life of the nation is due, he declared, to greed and avarice of Wall Street, Mr. Ford asserted, adding that these interests "dominated the railroads, coal mines and public utilities of the country."

The deadlockin strike negotiations indicated, he declared, the existence of "a plot to unload the demoralized and run down railroads onto the government at their own price and to mulct the people through excessive coal prices."

CANCELS SUPPLIES.

More than 900 telegrams were sent out today by Ford notifying the concerns that have been furnishing him with raw and partly manufactured materials, to cease their shipments, and 1,000 more will be sent tomorrow.

"We appreciate the great loss it will mean to these hundreds of supply houses, but it also will mean a tremendous loss to us. At present we are producing 5,200 cars a day and we sell 5,000 a day. We have to close down at a time when we are doing a greater business than ever before in our history."

Mr. Ford declared he "had not the remotest idea" when the plants could be reopened. It was announced that the normal daily consumption of coal in the Ford industries was 3,800 tons, and, although declaring to state the amount on hand at this time, officials said it would be impossible to do more "than keep the furnaces and ovens warm."

Only a comparatively small number of the employes of the Ford plants will be retained in service during the shut-down, it was announced. Crews sufficient to keep the furnaces warm will be held, however.

REFUSES TO PAY GRAFT.

The steel trust, as it happened, noticed Mr. Ford today that the price of steel on $1.40 bars would at once be increased to $1.60 and that the price would go to $2 at a date in the near future.

"I told them that I wanted no steel" said Ford. "I am going to shut down because I will not pay

Heatless Days Like War Times Foreseen Soon

Washington, Aug. 26.

HERALDING a return of war time "heatless days" and "lightless nights" a resolution was introduced in the House today by Representative Brennan, authorizing the administration to impose radical restrictions on the use of coal.

The resolution was intended to meet the impending coal famine through the restoration of fuel curtailment orders issued during the war.

graft, nor will I pay an excessive price for steel.

"I could get coal if I were willing to pay graft. Coal is offered to me every day at an excess price. I had a chance to buy 60,000 tons yesterday at $6 a ton. Four dollars and a half a ton is a good price for coal and that is all I will pay.

"I will not be a party to profiteering. That is why I am going to shut down until coal and steel profiteering are over. Tolerate such conditions and they will continue indefinitely.

PLOT AGAINST PUBLIC.

"There is no good reason why such conditions should exist at all. It is all a conspiracy to fleece the public. I believe both strikes—the railway and the coal strikesare conspiracies between Wall Street and the labor unions. I do not mean that union workingmen as a class are conspiring, but I do mean that their leaders are working in close co-operation with the railway and mone owners."

Ford's gesture today will immediately throw out of work more than 2,000,000. In Detroit alone it will stop the flow of $3,000,000 in weekly wages that are paid in the Ford plants. Throughout the nation it will almost double the number of town that are estimated to be without employment.

"I hate i do this," said Ford, "but it had to be done. I would have preferred to keep going. I like to see men employed and happy. But there is a price that I will not pay, to keep going and that is graft. I will not pay graft to get coal.

RETORTS TO HOOVER.

Somebody told Ford that Mr. Hoover had challenged his statement that coal could be bought if one were willing to pay the price.

"Hoover," said Ford, "is always more ready to challenge a statement than he is to investigate the truth of it. If Hoover does not know that brokers are offering coal at fancy prices he is one of the few men who do not know it. If Hoover wants to prevent profiteering he can, why doesn't he do it without talking about it?"

"I am closing down," he added, "when our business is breaking all records. We are making $3,100 care a day, and orders are coming in at the rate of $300 a day. But what is the use of doing business if one cannot do it under decent conditions. I'll never pay graft to go coal. if I never start."

400,000 R. R. Trackmen Demand Wage Boost

Chicago, Aug. 26.—An increase in the minimum wage for 400,000 maintenance of way employes from the present rate of 35 cents an hour to 48 cents an hour will be asked Monday before the United States Railroad Labor Board, E. F. Grable, president of the organization, announced today.

The present scale of maintenance of way man ranged from twenty-three cents to thirty-five cents an hour.

More than 105 railroads in the United States will be included in the case opening Monday.

"Arguments for increase in the minimum wage to forty-eight cents an hour, with differentials upward for skilled and hazardous employment" said President Grable, "will be based on the present upward trend of wages audited by the railroad industry and the increasing cost of living.

"Wages all over the country are increasing. Cost of living is advancing and economists tell us that we are entering a period of prosperity.

Harding Will Insist on Right to Seize Rails

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Aug. 26.—In the face of tremendous opposition, political and financial, President Harding's plans to take over railroads and mines went forward today.

The President had prepared a statement to Congress asking for sweeping powers of rail control, which he intended transmitting today. This message asks for enactment of a bill prepared by Senator Cummins, which the President approved.

Under advice of party leaders he reluctantly consented to withhold delivery of this message.

In the message he insists that Congress must give him power to meet the rail and coal emergency before it recesses. Under the existing laws he would find himself powerless.

The executives strongly urged that the President withhold interference and give the railroads a chance to work out the problem themselves. They claimed that the situation is improving hourly instead of growing more acute.

The President was said to be inclined to grant the request of the rail executives and keep "hands off" for a little while longer.

KLINE'S DRAMATIC STORY OF HOW BERGEN WAS SHOT IN STRUGGLE FOR PISTOL

Pleads "Unwriten Law"; Tells of Confessions of Wife and Her Attacker, Challenge to Duel in Dark and Treacherous Attempt of Actor to Kill Him.

Copyright, 1922, by N. Y. American.

New York, Aug. 26.—George A. Kline, director for the Fox Film Company, who shot and killed John Bergen, a movie stunt man, at the Kline home in Edgewater, N. J., Friday night, told the New York American today his own complete story of the slaying.

While Kline was talking to the American representative in the Hackensack jail, his wife was being questioned by H. C. Hart, prosecutor of Bergen county. Later she was reported prostrated in her home.

Kline is of the aggressive type, and at no time in his recital of the dramatic incident did his voice break. He is stockily built, about five feet, six inches in height. He has blond hair blue eyes and a ruddy complexion.

"UNWRITTEN LAW."

He is in no way nervous, and his step was firm and purposeful as he strode from his cell to the visitors' booth, where he told his story.

The "unwritten law" will be the basis of his defense. He said that his statements in this regard would be upheld by his brothers-in-law.

Kline's story, in full follows:

"I met John Bergen about three years ago when I was making a scene which required the use of a stunt man. This type of acting consists of doubling for prominent stars who are unwilling to risk their necks in hazardous roles.

"Bergen was a bouncer in a dance hall, but he was an athletic young man, clean cut, and seemed worth while developing.

"The work I got Bergen was all the work he ever had. We became fast friends and he was a constant visitor at my home.

SAVED HIM FROM JAIL.

"About two months ago Bergen got in trouble in Atlantic City. He went down there with a girl, not his wife, and was arrested on a charge of larceny. I believe that they accused him of stealing the woman's clothes and two diamond rings.

"In this strait he appealed to me for help and like a friend and a fool, I called up a lawyer and sent him to Atlantic City to square him. This cost me about $500. Bergen told me that he was drunk and was arrested.

"I supposed this incident brought us closer together; at least, I felt more friendly, and about one and one-half months ago, when I was ordered to go to Saranac Lake to film some pictures, I invited Bergen to go along.

"The company did not want Bergen. I was not particularly keen about having him come along, but as he had had that I took him up in my car with my wife and children.

"We stopped over night at Troy and I found the night at Saranac Lake we registered at the St. Regis, and I found that I had to leave the hotel to go to Standish to look over location locations. I called Jack aside and told him to take good care of my wife and my two kiddies.

"Jack assured me that I need have no fear of their welfare, but when I returned the next day I found my self in a terrible predicament. I found my wife in a condition convalescing at the lake and that the night had affected her greatly.

"I asked her if Jack had annoyed her. She denied that this was the case and I did not press the matter, but I remembered that a few days before we left for Saranac, Bergen had come to my home in company with a young woman. On this visit he had paid scant attention to his companion and had devoted himself to Mrs. Kline. I had noticed this in the company of my brother-in-law, while Bergen and Mrs. Kline spent about twenty minutes in the kitchen.

RECEIVED WARNING.

"Subsequently I received word that I had better watch Bergen and Mrs. Kline.

"Besides the suspicions aroused by this incident I had forgotten the matter until yesterday morning, when a fit of moodiness prompted me to inquire of Mrs. Kline what was disturbing her. She refused to tell me and there flashed through my mind the thought that Jack was at the bottom of it. When I taxed her with this she burst into tears."

Kline said that when his wife became calm she said:

"If you will bring Jack over here I will tell you the whole story."

Kline continued:

"Mrs. Kline called Bergen on the telephone and he promised to come over at 9 o'clock on Friday night.

"At 8 o'clock, however, Bergen telephoned he would not come. I then took the telephone receiver from Mrs. Kline and spoke to him myself. I asked him to put in an appearance, and as he was my friend, to be youthful with me.

"I have been your friend for years," I said, "and it seems to me that it is up to you to face this issue before me. If you are a man, you will come.

DRAMATIC MEETING.

"Perhaps there was an implied threat in this statement. I had been Bergen's friend for years. He knew that my enmity would ruin him in his picture business, and so he promised to come.

"Bergen arrived at 9:15 p. m. Friday night.

"My brothers-in-law and my wife were there. The bell rang and Jack entered. I told him at once that I wanted to know the truth about his relations with my wife.

"At first he tried to brazen it out. He denied that he had ever been other than a friend.

"I then turned from Bergen to my wife and asked her point blank what her relations were with Jack."

Kline said his wife's own words as she stood up and faced the man who had broken up our home were:

"Jack, you know when George left Saranac Lake that you procured a quart of wine and that I drank half a dozen glasses with you because I was not feeling well."

MRS KLINE'S CHARGES.

"You know also that the wine affected me, and that I left you and went through the room where my two children were. And you know that you came and knocked at the door, later, and that I opened it and pleaded with you to go.

"You know that you came in and that you attacked me. You forced your way into my room.

"Had I known you were outside the door, I would not have admitted you. I would not cry out because my children were near and I feared to awaken them.

"The last reason I kept this scene a secret was because I love my husband. I knew if I told him he would do something rash, but face to face with you, I acknowledge the truth."

Kline said that in front of his two brothers-in-law and his wife, he said to Bergen:

"Jack, I lifted you out of the gutter. I have been your friend for years, and what success you have had is due to me. I have tried to make a man of you."

"ALL WOMEN ROTTEN."

Kline said Bergen then retorted:

"Oh, hell, George, all women are rotten."

This was the breaking point, Kline asserted, and he turned to Jack and said:

"You have been a soldier, and I think I am a better man than you are. Come upstairs to my room and we will settle this matter. I will give you a gun and I will have a gun. We will turn out the lights, and if you kill me, knowing what you do about me, I don't believe that God is just."

Kline resumed his own story, saying:

"We went to the room together. Bergen seemed frightened. He cringed like a coward.

"I took my gun from my pocket and held it in my hand. Then I reached over to the dresser and handed him another gun.

"As I reached up and turned out the lights he attempted to fire. I grabbed his right hand with my left and wrested his gun from him. He grabbed my gun with both hands and tried to force my fingers from the trigger.

THE FATAL SHOT.

"In the scuffle for the possession of my weapon Bergen was forcing me from the room toward the stairway when my gun went off. Whose hand fired the shot, I do not know.

"Immediately afterward Bergen ran down the stairs, cut the front door and up the street. I thought he had been winged in the arm, but I left my brothers-in-law, Lawrence Soullion, to assist him in any way possible.

"Soullion found Bergen in the street about two blocks from my home. I called a taxi to take him to the hospital, but in the meantime the police had heard the shot and had taken possession of him.

"Later I was arrested."

"Attacked My Wife," Declares Movie Director

while they struggled the shot was fired. Kline said he was not sure who pulled the trigger, the prosecutor said.

Mr. Hart said Kline added he must have been drunk when he gave his first description of the affair.

TAXI DRIVER GAVE ALARM.

George Landon, a taxi driver, told the prosecutor he took Bergen to Kline's home about 9 o'clock and obeyed instructions to wait. When he heard a shot, he said, he drove away.

Seeing Bergen run from the house, the taxi man drove even faster, thinking his fare was a holdup man.

He notified a policeman, and, going back, they found Bergen, dying, a short distance from the Kline home. In his pocket was a blood-stained note, reading, "George Kline killed me."

Another note found in Bergen's clothes, and held by the prosecutor, said:

"If by chance I am shot in the next few weeks, it will be done by a George Kline, alias George Vain, of Edgewater, N. J., for reasons unknown to me. He is threatening me. No doubt a German Lager," caliber 25, will be used, as it is a favorite of his many guns. I am John Bergen, No. 214 East 15th street."

As the prosecutor related it, Kline said that Mrs. Kline had been acting strangely since her return from Saranac Lake, but it was only yesterday morning that she told him Bergen had "attacked" her there, after inducing her to drink.

INVITED TO HOUSE.

"Kline and Mrs. Kline both telephoned to Bergen after she had told her story yesterday," said the prosecutor, "urging him to come to Edgewater to clear up the situation. When he arrived, Mrs. Kline in the presence of her two brothers, her husband and Bergen, repeated the story. Bergen attempted to justify his act by alleging that all women are traitors, Kline said, and then the husband told him he would have to fight it out."

A woman who called at the local police station today said she was Mrs. May Bergen, of New York, declaring that Bergen had deserted her and their five-year-old child four years ago, four years after their marriage. She said she had called in the hope of being of assistance to Kline, declaring she considered that Bergen had gotten "his just deserts."

Kline told newspapermen that he met Bergen three years ago when the latter was a professional dancer in New York. "He was a corner loafer, but I made a man out of him, making him work, and even spending $1,000 to get him out of jail in Atlantic City," he said.

"On this trip to Saranac Lake this boy accompanied me. I left him alone at the hotel with my wife and two kiddies, trusting him, naturally. And then to think he went and pulled a rotten deal like this on me.

"Down in my heart I am sincerely sorry that this affair occurred. We struggled for the gun and in the struggle it went off and he was hit. I don't even know who pulled the trigger."

Were on "Location" for William Farnum Film

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Jack Bergen, stunt actor, who was killed by George A. Kline, pressed his attentions on Mrs. Kline at Standish, N. Y., where the company was working, while Kline was in Saranac Lake on business, it was learned here today. The two were constantly together.

William McManus, ex-jockey, who roomed with Bergen during the entire time he was here, threw considerable light on the affairs of Kline and Bergen. McManus offered to go on the stand and repeat it in order to clear what he calls a wrong that has been done to Kline, whom he called a "prince of men."

Six weeks ago a moving picture company arrived in Saranac Lake to make location pictures for "Moonlight Valley," in which William Farnum is starred. Herbert Brenon was the director and George Kline accompanied the company as business manager. Kline and Bergen, according to employes of the St. Regis Hotel, motored from New York together. Mrs. Kline and her two children were in the car.

CHILDREN WITH MOTHER.

The party stopped at the St. Regis two days. During that time, hotel employes say, the children were constantly with Mrs. Kline and Kline and Bergen were on the best of terms.

Then the company motored to Standish, a neighboring town, to get "location." While there, McManus says, Mr. and Mrs. Kline occupied a small house a short distance from the hotel where Bergen and the rest of the company were residing. McManus roomed with Bergen during this period.

In his statement McManus declares that Kline was in Saranac Lake on business fully half the time the company was at Standish. He alleges that in his absence Mrs. Kline and Bergen were constantly together. The members of the company, according to McManus, noticed the warm friendship, but laughed at it because of the friendship of the two men.

McManus says it was his custom (he was employed to care for the horses used in the picture) to ride with Mrs. Kline. On one occasion he called at the house for her and she was not to be found.

"Where is Mrs. Kline," he asked her seven-year-old son.

"Up stairs with Jack." McManus declares the boy answered.

KLINE "DISAPPOINTED."

Frank Chandos Brenon, brother of Herbert Brenon, it was learned that Bergen paid his own expenses while on the Adirondack trip, claiming he wanted to be near Kline, for whom he professed great friendship.

Kline and McManus visited Saranac Lake together when Christy Mathewson, famous pitcher, made his first public appearance a couple of weeks ago. On the trip from Standish, McManus says, Kline said he was disapointed in Bergen.

Bergen Died as He Lived, Says Deserted Wife

New York, Aug. 26.

"HE died as he had lived."

So said Mrs. May Gribbin Bergen, widow of Jack Bergen, alais actor. He deserted her four years ago. Their daughter Barbara is five years old. Mrs. Bergen lives with her father at No. 164 West 128th street.

Asked if any love for Bergen remained, she said: "Oh, no; it's impossible after the way he left us."

She said she would not attend the funeral.

They were married on December 7, 1916, after a whirlwind courtship by Bergen. Both were members of the chorus in a church minstrel show and thus became acquainted.

LURED TO DIE, SAYS MOTHER

Mrs. Bergen Declares Son Incapable of Injuring Kline or Wife

New York, Aug. 26.—The best boy that ever lived. The most respectable boy that ever stood on two feet. That was my baby, the youngest of my three sons, John Patrick Bergen. Nothing anyone can ever say will make me believe what George Kline says about my boy. My laddie was good, clean and honest."

Nervously rocking back and forth in a chair in the dining room of her apartment at No. 214 East One hundred and fifteenth street, Mrs. Ellen Bergen made the above statement today about Jack Bergen, as he was known to the movies, who was slain in Edgewater, N. J., Friday night. Her eyes were red from weeping and with a shaking hand she continually wiped the tears from her eyes.

Her husband, William Bergen, sat in his shirt sleeves with an unlit corn cob pipe in his mouth and tried to comfort his wife.

Mrs. Bergen continued:

THEIR LAST PARTING.

"Yesterday my boy was working in a movie studio somewhere in the Bronx. In the afternoon somebody had telephoned him twice. After he got home a neighbor came up about 6:30 and said that Johnny was wanted on the phone.

"When my boy came upstairs he said that he was going over to Hillfields to see Mr. and Mrs. Kline. He got dressed and left the house at eight o'clock."

Mrs. Bergen says he said as he was parting:

"Good-bye, mamma; I'll be in early. I am just going over to the Klines. They have a job for me tomorrow."

Mrs. Bergen continued:

"I cannot think that my boy would have gone over to that house if he had on his conscience the sin that Mr. Kline accuses him of! My boy is innocent. He was lured over to that house on the promise of obtaining work. I don't know what happened in that house nor can I say anything about Mr. and Mrs. Kline. But my boy never did what Mr. Kline says he did.

NEVER SAW MRS. KLINE.

"My boy respected Mr. and Mrs. Kline. I think that he has known Mr. Kline for two years or more. Mr. Kline has called at this house to see my boy when Johnny was sick. I never saw Mrs. Kline. Mr. and Mrs. Kline have repeatedly invited me to come over to their home with Johnny, but I never went.

PANIC GRIPS GERMANY AS FOOD FADES

Frantic Buying Is Reported From All Sections

WIRTH CALLS ALL PRIME MINISTERS

Workmen Bar Roads and Recover Goods From Foreigners

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, Aug. 26.—Germany is gripped in a veritable panic of fear that her cupboard will be empty the coming Winter. The cry of "The wolf is at the door" resounds throughout the country.

This is the immediate effect of the new devaluation of the mark and the corresponding inflation of prices intensified by the exaggerated fears that the bulk of the population will go hungry and freeze.

Frantic buying is reported in all sections of the country, where everything available for food and clothing is being hoarded for consumption or speculative purposes.

Deeply concerned by the alarm among its people and itself, the cabinet today held a special meeting to consider measures to meet the situation. The importance of the meeting and the gravity of the situation was emphasized by the fact that President Ebert himself presided, he only taking a chair in the cabinet session when really grave matters confront it.

MINISTERS SUMMONED.

Symptomatic uneasiness is felt even in the government. Chancellor Wirth having summoned by telegraph all the prime ministers of the German States to confer with the Central Government Monday.

The discrepancy between the exorbitant high prices of the necessities of life to Germans and the often absurd cheapness of the same articles to foreigners by reason of the exchange rate, are inspiring many efforts to restrict selling to foreigners.

Across the Swiss, Czech, Dutch, Danish and Polish borders would be buyers are coming, drawn by that magic word, "bargains." Seeing foreigners buying cheap what Germans they themselves need most and cannot buy because of exorbitant prices, is giving rise to a wave of bitter anti-foreigner feeling.

Along the Czecho-Slovakian border, roads crossing the frontier are being barricaded by barbed-wire on the German side, just as during the war suspects were searched for concealed weapons.

Weapons, so are now persons being searched for goods bought in Germany.

At one place on the Saxon-Bohemian border, workmen of their own accord occupied the roads across the line and captured groups of Czech buyers, including many women. They searched them and took away everything they had purchased in Germany.

GERMANY BEING "SOLD."

Everywhere is the cry: "Germany is being sold out to foreigners."

Even in and around Berlin today gave me glimpses of frantic buying by those who have the necessary money.

Jewelry stores said that 85 per cent of their clients were foreigners. Jewelry was very hourly with the rate of exchange.

The price of furs increased 800 to 400 per cent this week. A suit of clothes costs 10,000 marks, which, while less than $10 at the present rate of exchange, represents two months' wages of the average workman.

A visit to the market places showed butter so high in price that scarcely a pound was being sold, oleomargarine being used almost exclusively.

STEEL CO. INCREASES PAY 5 CENTS AN HOUR

Dover, N. J., Aug. 26.—The Replogle Steel Company today announced an increase in wages of five cents an hour, effective September 1.

A voluntary increase of two cents an hour was granted July 1. The company operates furnaces at Wharton and mines at Mine Hill and Mount Hope.

HULL CALLS IT HALF A GALA DAY

Rain Jinx Forces Postponement of Big Events Till Next Saturday

3 BALL GAMES AT ONE TIME

Baysides Battle With Grow Tire Outfit in Main Attraction

The Rain Jinx which has been working overtime this season to spoil week-ends throughout New England made only a 50 per cent. job yesterday of queering Hull's Gala Day.

There wasn't enough rain in the clouds to stop Hull. The day was the day and Hull started.

First, with the track wet and rapidly getting wetter, fleet-footed youngsters from all the Hull beaches put on a series of running races.

After that, there were a series of baseball games—three of 'em going at the same time and all three diamonds flooded.

BIG EVENTS DEFERRED.

Showers stopped the baseball several times, but it wasn't until the Hull ple diamond was flooded under that the committee in charge decided to put over the big gala day events until next Saturday.

So after all the big Hull gala day will be Saturday of this week. Then the crack Bayside baseball team will go to bat with the Grow Tire outfit—and there'll be as good a ball game played on Bayside's diamond as you could wish to see played on anybody's.

The Bayside team is recognized as one of the best in the State. It has had that reputation ever since Willard Gallagher, who now makes it a summer home at Surfside, was called on to pick up a scrub team to meet a crack nine from Roxbury some dozen years ago.

SOME FAST PITCHING.

Gallagher, himself a semi-pro of renown, did some fast picking. When the Roxburyites appeared at Hull he had on his team the same Janvrin who now is darkinating himself at the second bag for Brooklyn and James A. Hatton, a wonderful ball player in his time. But there's nothing more than Assistant United States District Attorney.

Bayside beat the Roxbury team, oddly enough. And Bayside ever since has been cleaning up. But what Bayside has to show against the Grow Tire boys will be small. The bunch is old Olaf Henriksen, who banged Christy Matthewson for the run that won the World Series for the Red Sox in 1912—must wait.

Next Saturday, unless Hull is going to issue a call for Saturdays in a row, will tell the story.

RIOTS IN PALESTINE OVER KING'S MANDATE

Jerusalem, Aug. 26.—Disturbances are reported to have occurred in a number of villages and colonies throughout Palestine. The situation, according to these reports, is becoming serious. Unrest among the Arab inhabitants, who are opposed to the British mandate for Palestine, has assumed great proportions.

PAJAMA PARTY IN 'LOVE NEST' REVEALED IN COURT

WIFE WAITS WHILE GREEN REMAINS WITH PRETTY WIDOW, SAYS WITNESS

Auto Trips Figure in Story of Physician and 'Flo' Eliott; Woman Attends in Pale Blue Nightie, Judge Is Told, and Conference Precedes Arrest.

She wore a pale blue "nightie" and he pajamas to match.

The time was midnight and the place a snug little apartment on Corey road, Brighton.

His wife and a party of friends waited outside in a motor car while they discussed with another friend whether he would go back to his wife and family—leaving "her."

"Flo" is Dr. William A. Green, a young Dorchester physician. "She" is Mrs. "Flo" Eliott, young, wealthy Brookline widow of Morris Eliott, until his death two years ago, a prosperous Boston shoe dealer.

H. L. Getter, a Tremont street outfitter and friend of all parties concerned, testified as to the conference in Brighton Court yesterday at the trial of Green and Mrs. Eliott on a statutory charge, upon which they were arrested in the "nest" last week.

Mrs. Green, deserted by her husband almost a year ago and left in her Blue Hill avenue home with their daughter, took "Friend Getter" to the Brookline Court recently, he testified, where he made some statement anent the "affair of Dr. Green and the attractive widow, 'Flo'." The arrest of the couple by Brighton police followed.

"A party of us went to the Corey road apartment late one night," Mr. Getter testified. "There was Mrs. Green, Dr. Leo Potter, my son and myself. I left the car and rang the bell."

"Who came to the door?" Attorney Fred Norton, for Mrs. Green, inquired.

"Mrs. Eliott came to the door," was the reply.

Q.—How was she dressed? A.—She had on a nightgown.

Q.—Describe it, what color was it? A.—I can't remember. I don't know much about such things.

Q.—Was Dr. Green in the apartment? A.—Yes.

Q.—How was he dressed? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Didn't you tell the Brookline court judge when you went there with Mrs. Green that the doctor was in pajamas? A.—Yes, he had on a suit of pajamas.

Q.—Can you tell the Court what the apartment looked like? A.—I didn't study the place much.

Q.—How long were you there? A.—I remained one hour, I think.

CONFERENCE DISCUSSED.

Q.—What did you talk about? A.—We discussed the possibility of a conference on the matter of Dr. Green returning to his wife.

Q.—Where did you go afterwards? A.—I returned to my home.

Q.—Did Dr. Green and Mrs. Eliott call on you at your home that morning? A.—Yes.

Q.—Didn't they call twice that morning? A.—Yes, they came at six o'clock and again at three o'clock.

Q.—What did they say when they came? Didn't they call to see if you couldn't give them a room for the night? A.—Dr. Green said he wanted a room.

Q.—What reason was given for wanting a room at your house? A.—Dr. Green said they did not want to return to 88 Corey road. They called at 1 o'clock, departed and came back at 3 o'clock. Yes, they brought me some sandwiches and coffee. I only had one room.

Q.—Did you meet Dr. Green and Mrs. Eliott later that day? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where? A.—At a conference at Dr. Potter's house.

Q.—Who was there? A.—Dr. Green, Dr. Potter, Morris Zieman, Mrs. Green and myself.

IN THEIR COMPANY.

The affairs of Dr. Green, his wife, and "Flo" Eliott occupied the attention of the conference, Mr. Getter testified. In answer to Attorney Norton's questions Getter told of being in the company of Dr. Green and the young Brookline widow. He first met Mrs. Eliott about a year and a half ago he testified.

Getter was seized with peculiar lapses of memory while giving testimony. Frequently he would employ the answer:

"I don't remember."

While testifying regarding a card game participated in by Dr. Green, the widow and himself, Judge Connolly interjected the query:

"What were trumps?"

Witness Getter turned helplessly to the bench with the answer:

"I don't remember."

RIDES WITH WIDOW.

Witness told of riding on one recent occasion with "Flo" Eliott in her big motor car.

Q.—Whom did you meet there? A.—We met Dr. Green. He stepped off a train and we drove back to Boston.

Witness Getter then described a motor trip to Green Acre, Eliot, Maine, where he has a Summer cottage near the famous Bahai colony.

Q.—Do you recall a trip with Dr. Green and Mrs. Eliott to Eliot, Maine? A.—Yes. We went down in Mrs. Eliott's car. She drove part of the way and Dr. Green also drove. There was my daughter, Dr. Green, Mrs. Eliott and myself.

Q.—What happened when you arrived there? A.—Dr. Green and Mrs. Eliott went to a hotel. My daughter and I went to our cottage.

Here witness again had recourse to the "don't remembers" when questioned concerning what he told a Brookline judge anent Dr. Green and Mrs. Eliott at the "Bitter Sweet" Inn.

Q.—Did they register? Did you tell the Brookline judge that they didn't register at all? A.—I don't think they registered.

Q.—Did Dr. Green and Mrs. Eliott go to the same room? A.—I don't know. Dr. Green looked at several rooms.

Q.—Didn't you tell the Brookline court that Dr. Green and Mrs. Eliott were at the hotel for four days? A.—No.

Q.—What did you say. A.—I said they were there two or three days.

Referring back to the incident of the midnight "nightie-pajama" conference Getter was asked:

Q.—Did Dr. Green put on any clothing over his pajamas? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that you said in Brookline Court at the warrant hearing that Dr. Green donned some clothing while you were there. A.—Yes.

Q.—What clothing did he put on? A.—A hat and coat.

Q.—Over his pajamas? A.—Yes.

READY TO ELOPE.

Q.—Did you tell the Court that Dr. Green and Mrs. Eliott made ready to flee when they learned that Mrs. Green was outside? A.—I don't remember.

When Attorney Norton delved into the details of the midnight conference, Judge Connolly glancing about the crowded courtroom noticed many young men and women—even children in the spectators benches.

He ordered them from the room and the hearing was halted while police officers escorted the children with their parents and the curious youngsters in their teens to the exits.

"LOVE NEST," SAYS JANITOR.

John A. McDonald, janitor at No. 88 Corey road for four years, told of visits made by Mrs. Eliott and Green to the apartment after Mrs. Eliott's sister, Mrs. Labow, and family had gone to Nantasket for the Summer. He said that the couple visited the place about twice a week this Summer, and he had seen Dr. Green drive away in Mrs. Eliott's car, at about 5:30 in the morning, on about six occasions.

Officer Walter Brown of the Brighton police testified that when he went with Officer Donaghue to arrest both Mrs. Eliott and Dr. Green, the former answered the bell at 88 Corey road. The officers entered the apartment after Mrs. Eliott had asked them what were the charges against her, and after she objected to allowing them to enter.

The officer said all the furniture was packed ready to be moved. He saw one bedroom with sheet and two pillows tossed in such a way he knew two parties slept in the bed.

Daniel W. Donaghue, a traffic officer, who assisted in arresting Green and Mrs. Eliott, testified the couple explained the packed furniture by saying the family was moving to No. 1138 Commonwealth avenue.

BROTHER ON TRAIL.

Max Zieman, an attorney and brother of Mrs. Green, told a story of trailing Flo Eliott down Hanover street to Dr. Green's office about two years ago, but when he attempted to testify about the relations between the pair prior to June, 1922, objection was raised out, as the charges against the couple cover the period from June to August.

Isadore Rosenberg, son of Mrs. Green, was one of the party outside the home of Mrs. Eliott during the midnight call of Dr. Getter. He testified that his car followed the pair to Brighton avenue that morning, but at about 3 o'clock lost the Eliott car in the Fenway.

DO YOU EAT YOUR HALF EGG DAILY?

BOLT STRIKES STANDISH SHAFT

Head and Shoulders Ripped From Statue by Lightning

Duxbury, Aug. 26.—Lightning struck the Myles Standish Monument at South Duxbury yesterday causing damage estimated at more than $10,000. The head and an arm were torn from the statue of Captain Standish, which stands at the top of the monument.

After badly damaging the observation room at the top of the 124-foot granite memorial, the bolt followed the spiral iron stairway to the custodian's room at the base, which was likewise wrecked. By a strange prank of the bolt, the stone balustrade leading down from the monument was knocked awry.

Construction of the monument was begun October 7, 1872, and its dedication took place in 1898. The arch was made of stone contributed by every State in the Union. President U. S. Grant sent the keystone.

Buildings in the neighborhood were shaken by the force of the bolt.

SPLIT AMONG ALLIES WIDER

By Universal Service.

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Paris, Aug. 26.—After the first unofficial meeting of the Reparations Commission following the return of some of its members from Berlin, the Anglo-French conflict has become wider.

The English, supported by the Italians, are still insisting that Germany can pay no more at the present time, making it plain that a moratorium must be granted.

The French seem more opposed to a moratorium than ever.

BRIDE, 15, JAILED; THEN DAD RELENTS

Susie Piluso, fifteen, of Winchester, who disappeared from her home, No. 15 Spruce street a week ago, returned yesterday and told her parents she had married Paul Marullian.

Her father, Michael Piluso, immediately notified the police and the girl was held pending investigation of false statements she made in obtaining a license. The father relented when Susie told of her love for Marullian and sought to have her released.

ROUND-THE-WORLD FLIGHT ABANDONED

Calcutta, Aug. 26.—The round-the-world flight attempt begun from Croydon, England, May 24, by Major W. T. Blake, has been abandoned. Major Blake, with Captain Norman MacMillan and Lieutenant Mallins, who continued the flight when Major Blake was obliged to remain in Calcutta on account of illness, will return to London soon.

It's No Crime to Bury Auto When It Balks

Los Angeles, Aug. 26. RAYLE MILLER had an automobile—a used car. He ran it out in the hot sun and it quit on him. He fixed it. It quit again. Miller worked and worked and the car balked and balked. Finally he got it to run, and he headed it into a sand pit, where he first dismembered it and then buried it, with a screwdriver as a headstone.

Neighbors who saw the interment called the police. They took Mr. Miller to the station and questioned him.

"It was a used car," he explained.

"Ah," said the captain, "I had one once; turn him loose."

NORTHCLIFFE'S WILL FOUGHT

By Universal Service

London, Aug. 26.—Three caveats were entered today against the will of Lord Northcliffe, with the view of cancelling the last document made by the publisher.

Northcliffe, shortly before his death, made a second will, naming his wife sole executrix. In the first will there were four codicils, the first dated March, 1919, the last April, 1922, in which Sir George Sutton, chairman of the Amalgamated Press, and Attorney Arnholz, both old friends and colleagues of Northcliffe, are named executors and trustees.

Sutton and Arnholz are now opposing the second will on the ground that Northcliffe was of unsound mind at the time of its making. In both documents, Lord Northcliffe's wife is understood to be named the chief beneficiary.

The suit asks the court to decide which will shall stand.

ZIONISTS HAIL U. S. AS FRIEND

Karlsbad, Aug. 25—"In the most difficult hour of our struggle for freedom, the American Government and the American people came to our aid", declared Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the world Zionist organization, in his opening address at the annual meeting of that body here today.

Nahum Sokolow, who headed the Zionist delegation which visited the United States on behalf of the Palestine Foundation Fund, said: "The resolution adopted by the United States for the Jewish National Home in Palestine was not a mere diplomatic gesture; but a genuine expression of enthusiasm for the Jewish renaissance."

O. B. U. ALONE IN MILL STRIKE

Leader Attacks Lawrence Mayor for Calling Strike Ended

Lawrence, Aug. 26.—A proclamation in which Mayor Daniel W. Mahony virtually declared the strike of Lawrence textile workers to be at an end today drew the fire of Ben Legere, head of the One Big Union, on the Mayor.

Legere was speaking on the Lawrence Common to approximately 500 operatives. Legere also attacked the newspapers, which he said had capitalistic leanings in their treatment of the strike.

Legere said the One Big Union had been deceived and "framed" by the Lawrence strike conference committee, but he told his followers his organization would continue the fight.

Legere's address on the Common followed the disbanding of the Strike Conference Committee, at a meeting lasting only four minutes in the city hall auditorium. When the meeting convened the tables hitherto occupied by the United Textile Workers and American Federation of Textile Operatives were unoccupied, members of these organizations having voted to return to work. William Wilson of the Mule Spinners Union announced that his organization had decided to return to work. This left only the One Big Union.

Bert Emsley, an officer in the O. B. U., then attempted to address the gathering, numbering about 500, but was stopped by City Messenger J. A. Murphy, who declared the permit was granted the strike conference and a mass meeting could not be held. Legere and his followers then withdrew to the Common.

Mayor Mahony had declared he would do "all in his power" for the strikers who have decided to return to the mills, and termed the settlement a "substantial victory."

The employes of the Acadia mill voted to return to work Monday in a body.

LLOYD GEORGE BOOK MONEY FOR CHARITY

London, Aug. 26. (By Associated Press).—Premier Lloyd George has announced all the proceeds of his forthcoming book will be devoted to charity.

There has been much criticism in certain sections of the press over the propriety of a head of Cabinet writing in book form his memoirs containing official information while he is still in an official position and making money thereby.

SOMERVILLE GIRL IS MISS NANTASKET

Flo Ziegfeld Says His Choice, Grace Clifford, Can Be in Follies

GIVES OWN $100 TO "DREAM OF A CHILD"

Crowd of 5,000 Sees the Beauty Expert Pick Beach Beauty

(For pictures of Miss Nantasket and other winners in the Nantasket beauty show, see Page 1 of the Sports Section.)

"She has wonderful eyes, in fact, the most wondrous eyes I have met in many years. She has an exceedingly pretty face, a queenly carriage and an exquisite form."

This tells the story concerning Miss Grace Clifford of No. 87 Pennsylvania avenue, Somerville, and explains why Flo Ziegfeld, America's greatest expert on womanly pulchritude, selected her for Miss Nantasket and then said that the prize winner could enter his theatrical organization whenever she wishes.

The Nantasket Beach Steamboat Company staged a bathing beauty contest on the sands of Nantasket Beach late yesterday afternoon.

Despite the rain more than 5,000 persons viewed the spectacle and more than 200 of Greater Boston's handsomest young women participated.

There were three big attractions. To begin with, Flo Ziegfeld was there—very much there.

"A DREAM OF A CHILD."

Then came Miss Clifford, who romped away with the first prize.

And next in order came tiny Valeria Armstrong of No. 134 Pelham way, Medford. She proved such a sweet morsel of femininity that Ziegfeld created a special class for juveniles and presented two brand new $50 bills to the girl he termed, "a perfect dream of a child."

It was originally planned to restrict the contest to girls over twelve years old, but along came Valeria, and the crowd demanded that she be given the right to enter.

This midget of a three-year-old girl was dressed in a striking black costume and wore a snappy black plumed hat to match.

She made such a hit with the crowd and officials that they selected her to head the procession.

"A perfect wonder," said Ziegfeld, when he gazed at the little figure walking toward him. "She is worth her weight in gold. What will she be in a few years?"

JUVENILE PRIZES.

Then, after picking the beauties in the regular show, Ziegfeld called back the juveniles and, extracting a huge roll of bills from his pocket, gave Valerie the two fifties.

Viola Jones, five years old, of No. 18 Robeson street, Jamaica Plain, was given $50, a similar prize was given to Phyllis Mollison of No. 152 Railroad avenue, Norwood. Phyllis is twelve years old and surprized Ziegfeld by walking on her toes during all the time he was inspecting her charms.

"I did the best I could", said Ziegfeld when the main beauty contest was over. Miss Clifford measured up to my standards of beauty so I picked her for Miss Nantasket. If she wants to try for the stage I shall give her an opportunity. I shall also give Miss Mildred Farrar the same opportunity.

Miss Farrar, a blonde type, of No. 87 Temple street, Somerville was awarded second prize and given the coveted title of "Miss Modesty."

CONSIDER OFFER.

"Will I accept Mr. Ziegfeld's offer?" Miss Clifford smiled. I'll think it over. I may accept but I want time to consider."

Miss Farrar was also uncertain, but thanked Ziegfeld for his offer.

The third prize was won by Mrs. Rose Gronberg of No. 2 Rodgers avenue, Lynn.

F. M. Shaw of the Moxie Company and Thomas J. Griffin of the Nantasket Beach Steamboat Company were to serve as judges with Ziegfeld but surrendered all the responsibility to him.

Of course it had to rain when the judges started the review but it faded to mar the show.

Among the other bathing beauties selected by Ziegfeld for cash prizes were:

Gladys Redmond, No. 19 Cortez street, Boston; Charlotte Gauley, No. 17 Exeter street, Medford; Josephine Sawaskey, North Montello street, Brockton; Marie Morgan, No. 51 Smith street, Lynn; Ora Davis, No. 63 Pearl street, Cambridge; Norma Pinckney, No. 40 Walnut avenue, Revere; Rose Keegan, No. 221 Bunnings street, East Lynn; May Edwards, No. 9 Greenwich street, Dorchester; Edith Harrington, No. 212 Trenton street, Revere; Mabel Tennison, No. 27 Commercial street, Boston; Louise Dane, No. 101 School street, Brookline; Florence Claffey, No. 39 Mather street, Dorchester; Ruth Farrar, sister of the second prize winner; Theresa Morgan, No. 44 Lowell street, Lawrence; Gladys Connell, No. 40 Wentworth avenue, Stoughton, and Eva Franklin, No. 417 Harrison avenue, Boston.

'DREAM CHILD'

Valerie Armstrong of Medford so captivated Flo Ziegfeld at the Nantasket beauty test yesterday that he gave her a special prize of $100.

WOOD OFFERS $500 REWARD

"No Questions Asked" if Auto Victim's Pocketbook Is Returned

Lawrence, Aug. 26.—The fact that a pocketbook containing $90, valuable papers and keys was either lost or stolen from the pocket of William M. Wood, Jr., when he was killed in an automobile accident in Reading on August 15, came to light today.

William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Co. and father of the victim, has offered a reward of $500 for the return of the pocketbook and contents with "no questions asked."

It was learned from George Wallace, secretary to Mr. Wood, that the keys in the pocketbook were keys to drawers in the American Woolen Co. offices and to the Wood home. Just what the nature of the papers was the secretary would not disclose.

Reading police are working on the case and are checking up on all persons who are known to have been at the scene of the accident.

Whether the pocketbook was stolen or whether it fell out of Wood's pocket and was picked up, is the problem that the police are trying to solve.

WOMEN TO KEEP HOME FIRES GOING

Little Booklet Will Tell How to Burn Soft Coal This Winter

IT ALSO WILL TELL THEM HOW TO DRESS

Storrow Is Leading the Campaign to Save Folk From Freezing

"Burn soft coal, we will show you how.

"Wear a smile while burning soft coal.

"New England brains can make soft coal burn as well as any other kind."

Thus, to the women of Massachusetts, speaks Chairman James J. Storrow and the 356 men distributors on his committee. They offer a solution to the coal problem.

When Winter winds are blowing and the mercury drops to zero, all the housekeeper has to do is to light her soft coal fire, take her little book of directions and follow the advice of the fuel commission. She is advised to "wear a smile," lest anything else she wears will be covered with smudge and soot.

FIVE MONTHS BEHIND.

The women are told to burn soft coal because the chairman explains the country is five months behind on hard coal, owing to the strike, and there is plenty of soft coal. Chairman Storrow has ordered through the national distributor 100,000 tons of bituminous or soft coal. True, the coal has not been delivered yet, but the men's fuel committee has put a charge of 25 cents on every ton to a fund to pay the expenses of the commission. This $25,000 will help pay for the publication of the little book on how to burn soft coal, a copy to be placed in the hands of every housekeeper in the State.

The 356 men on the fuel committee decided it was a woman's job to run the furnace and the cook stove next Winter, so the committee appointed a Home Fuel Advisor in every city and town. This woman will begin a campaign to educate housekeepers how to keep warm without ashbarrels.

THE HOW AND WHY.

Chairman Storrow, in selecting the Home Advisors, appointed a local committee with Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer as chairman. The Home Advisors will be named tomorrow and Chairman Storrow, in his little typewritten books of instructions, advises his local committee thusly: "The type of woman we have in mind is one who is well-liked and thoroughly respected by all, practical in her ideas, with leadership, and who will work."

The men will handle the $25,000 fund of the Fuel Commission at the State House. The women will distribute the book on how to keep the home fires burning, at the clubs, the churches, the mothers' meetings, the sewing circle, and everywhere women congregate. The women of Massachusetts will take the little book home, study it well, keep its well thumbed pages turned down at "How to start a soft coal fire," "How to dress while keeping the fire" and "What to do when the fire burns out, as it will several times a day, unless it receives close and continuous nursing."

Then the women will buy soft coal, pay at least twenty-five cents extra on every ton to support the fuel commission, and start the Winter fire.

YANKEE GIRL SNUBS A KING

"I Don't Dance With Everybody," Miss Berdoni Tells Alfonso

New York, Aug. 26.—With an air of indifference Miss Irene Berdoni, the American actress returning on the French liner France, today, dismissed a discussion of her refusal to dance with King Alfonso, the Spanish monarch, at Deauville. She merely chuckled and said:

"Why, there was nothing to the incident. At the dance at Deauville, King Alfonso was besieged by those who felt honored by dancing with him. He danced with everyone.

"He had just had a dance with the Dolly sisters, when he came to me and asked me for the next dance. I was very curt, but polite to him."

Miss Berdoni said in refusing the dance, she only said:

"Excuse me, but I do not dance with everybody."

The King smiled, bowed and retreated, and sought a new partner, Miss Berdoni said.

Miss Berdoni is the wife of Ray Gest, the theatrical producer. He was at the pier to meet her.

3 DIE AS BIG WARSHIP SINKS

Nearly 900 of Crew of French Vessel Are Rescued

L'Orient, France, Aug. 26 (By the Associated Press).—The battleship France, 23,000 tons, one of the prides of the French navy, struck a rock off Quiberon Bay in the darkness of early morning today, and went to the bottom in seventy-five feet of water.

All but three of the 800 officers and men of the crew were rescued from rafts and life-boats launched from the battleship before she took her final plunge.

The wrecked warship, which was one of the four French battleships of the first line, was returning from eight maneuvres to her anchorage at Fort Haliguen, when at one o'clock this morning she ran on a hidden rock lying twenty-five feet below the surface. A great gash was torn in the steel hull of the dreadnought. She remained afloat an hour, giving the crew enough time for hurried escape in boats. Then the doomed craft slowly settled, turned on her side, and went down. She lies on the bottom and is considered a total wreck.

to come back, if she wishes me home again. Eldridge has beaten and abused me. Oh, God, I am sick of it all," she quoted.

Chief Dowling, to whom Hazzard had walked twenty miles from Fitchburg, to tell his story at once despatched Ray McKean to Montreal to investigate and to visit Mrs. Jones, whose address is given as 304 111, Toronto.

Chief Dowling also took Hazzard to Ayer, where he was rigidly grilled by the chief and Asst. Clerk of Courts Thomas F. Mullin. Clerk Mullin is inclined to doubt the story of Hazzard, as is the Chief, but they wish to miss no chances, and in addition to sending a man to Canada, have communicated with the Montreal and Toronto police.

The girl is known to be in Montreal, as a post card was received from her at that place.

Hazzard asserts he is going to Toronto tonight and will bring the girl back with him if she is there.

MOTHER WANTS HER.

The mother of the girl declares she will welcome her back with open arms. "My baby, my poor baby," she sobbed when told of the plight of her daughter. "Of course, I will take her back. I am her mother, am I not? What else could I do? What else would I want to do as a mother? She is my baby, no matter what happens."

Mrs. Eldridge, wife of the erring husband, who has lost nine children in childbirth, today declared she would divorce her husband, so he might marry the girl he had wronged.

"Nothing doing", said Chief Dowling on this procedure. "There will be no free love in this town. There will be no wedding bells or romance again for Eldridge. It will be the Mann Act. I shall call in the Federal authorities, and ask them to prosecute the case, urging the most severe penalty, which I understand to be twenty years."

WIFE IS HIS BEST CAMPAIGN MANAGER

If representative Wilbur F. Lewis, of No. 51 Fosket street, West Somerville, is reelected to the House he will owe it to his wife, who has full charge of his campaign.

Last night Mrs. Lewis entertained thirty women in the first of a series of house rallies in Wards 2, 6, and 7, in that city, which her husband has represented for two terms.

She and her son, Wilbur F. Jr., aged five, who recently returned from a Summer at Duxbury, are demanding that Mr. Lewis will emerge victorious in the field of seven candidates for the office.

BATHER VICTIM OF APHASIA

Worcester Man Who Vanished at Revere Found on Street

Worcester, Aug. 26.—Wandering along Cambridge and Southbridge streets, a victim of aphasia, Clifford G. Richards, of No. 604 Cambridge street, who disappeared four days ago while bathing at Revere Beach, was found by Leonard Underhill, a neighbor. Police at Revere believed the man drowned and were waiting for the body to be washed ashore.

Richards' mind was a complete blank and he could give no information as to where he had been, what he had done or what had happened to him.

Police of Greater Boston and Worcester had been searching for him since early Wednesday, when he went out on the beach in a bathing suit. His other clothes were later found in a locker at the State Bath House, under the name of Mr. George W. Bemis of No. 146 Main street, Worcester. She is a local lodge woman, who has had business dealings with Richards.

When found in Worcester, Richards was attired in a pair of khaki pants, an army shirt and a cap. Police are at a loss to explain how he obtained the clothing and returned to Worcester.

Mrs. Richards, wife of the missing man, was prostrated at his absence.

Convicted of Second Degree Murder; Others Freed

and brought to trial and the trial itself.

One of the original seven men who faced the jury went insane and was committed to Bridgewater asylum; one of the principal witnesses for the State was closely guarded after threats to slay him; another man who was to testify here was slain in New York; a Mafia outbreak in Brooklyn was declared to have resulted from testimony given at the local trial; witness s startled the court with stories of intimidation; angry outbreaks of several of the defendants over incriminating testimony and general indications of ominous aftermath marked the case.

Before the jury reported, Simboli, buried fiery denunciations at Antonio Mascatti, another of the defendants.

Screaming in his native tongue, Simboli from his cell above the pen in the prisoners' detention room accused Mascatti and the latter's wife, who had been allowed to sit with him, of plotting against him and his brother.

"Antonio told his wife to go outside the building and find my brother. She was told to rush up to a police officer and say that my brother threatened to shoot her because of her testimony at the trial," he yelled.

In the pen below Simboli's cell Mascatti sat with his devoted wife by his side. He is in serious physical condition and when the shouts of Simboli reached his ears he became extremely nervous, his head rolling helplessly from side to side.

Suddenly his body went limp and he fell from the protecting arms of his wife to the floor of the prisoners' pen. Counsel and court officers [illegible] him to the open air.

Meanwhile Simboli roared and raged until quieted by his counsel, Felix Forte, and officers.

WOMEN, EVER FAITHFUL.

The jurors, in a room nearby, could not help hearing echoes of Simboli's torrent of fiery invective, but the process of finding the guilt or innocence of the defendants went on.

While the jury deliberated, on a bench outside the court room two women waited—waited in a frenzy of mingled hope and fear. They were Mrs. Mary Simboli, wife of Joseph, and Mrs. Francesco Toscano, wife of another defendant.

Mrs. Toscano held in her arms a baby only a little more than a week old, a baby whom the father had never seen, save from behind prison bars.

Throughout a long night and day that the jury deliberated these women waited. Because of her baby, Mrs. Toscano could not be present during the night of Friday, but early yesterday morning she was on the scene.

"ALWAYS WAITING."

Late yesterday afternon the jury reported they could not agree and were sent back to continue deliberations. As it was reported earlier they had about agreed to convict Simboli and consider the other defendants accessories, the report of disagreement carried a bit of hope to Mrs. Simboli.

Mrs. Simboli appeared at the Court House at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. She could not be admitted, so the faithful wife went to a Scollay square restaurant, where she waited until she was admitted to the Court House.

Sempre aspettino" was the plaintive slogan of both the women whose faith and hope are worthy of chronicle despite whatever their hue hands may or may not have done.

"Always waiting." the forlorn note became a bugbear to court attendants, and even the attorneys engaged in the case.

Both the women repeated it constantly. "Sembre aspettino," always waiting, while Mrs. Simboli varied the plaint with the cry, "Esso e innocent." "He is innocent."

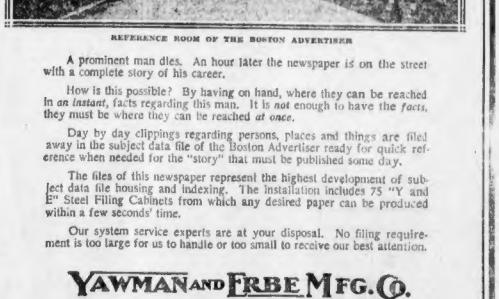
Steel Filing Cabinets Safeguard the "Boston Advertiser's" Priceless Records



REFERENCE ROOM OF THE BOSTON ADVERTISER

A prominent man dies. An hour later the newspaper is on the street with a complete story of his career.

How is this possible? By having on hand, where they can be reached in an instant, facts regarding this man. It is not enough to have the facts, they must be where they can be reached at once.

Day by day clippings regarding persons, places and things are filed away in the subject data file of the Boston Advertiser ready for quick reference when needed for the "story" that must be published some day.

The files of this newspaper represent the highest development of subject data file housing and indexing. The installation includes 75 "Y and F" Steel Filing Cabinets from which any desired paper can be produced within a few seconds' time.

Our system service experts are at your disposal. No filing requirement is too large for us to handle or too small to receive our best attention.

Makers of Glaring Auto Lights Benefit, Says Doctor

LAW PASSED FOR THEM, HE DECLARES

Treats Dozens of Chauffeurs Whose Eyes Are Affected

"The glaring headlight law was created for the benefit of lamp and lense manufacturers."

"I have treated dozens of automobile drivers for eye strain during the past few months."

"It is utterly impossible for the authorities to enforce the glaring headlight law, which is a mass of contradictions."

These three statements tumbling after each other from the lips of Dr. James A. Mansfield, prominent optician of No. 42 Hancock street, Dorchester, last night summed up his bitter arraignment of the glaring headlight law.

"By what right has any man to meet a few lamp and lense dealers and listen to their advice about lenses and lamps and then inflict his opinion on intelligent people and have those ideas crystallized into a law?" asked Dr. Mansfield.

VISION INJURED.

"I have been called in time after time by auto drivers whose eyes have been badly strained and their vision distorted through attempting to pilot their cars against the steady glare.

"There are many probes going on in the State House. I think it's about time the probers get busy and find out who is benefiting by this headlight law.

"I have been told that before the headlight law became operative a certain high official interested in the passage of the law called on a manufacturer on Boylston street and witnessed a demonstration of different types of lenses and centered on several as the sort autoists should be compelled to purchase in accordance with the headlight law then pending.

WANTS LAW REPEALED.

"The incoming Legislature should wipe this iniquitous piece of legislation from the statute books and stop lamp manufacturers from molesting the public.

"Of what use are glaring headlights on machines in well-lighted cities, like Boston? Why don't the authorities compel automobile owners to dim their lights inside the city limits? An agitation along that line instead of a continual harangue about the use of certain types of lights will be more beneficial to the people who own and operate automobiles. The safety of the public by such action will be greatly enhanced."

Boston traffic officers yesterday admitted that it was impossible for them to enforce the glaring headlight law for the reason that it had no "teeth."

They point to the proviso that the only penalty for violators of the law is to compel them to equip their machines with a lense, or other device, approved by the registrar of motor vehicles, designed to prevent glaring rays.

Goodwin Warns Reckless Drivers

In the most drastic attempt yet made to avert the auto death wave, which collected the sad toll of eight lives and 150 serious injuries last Saturday and Sunday, State Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin said yesterday he would suspend the license of every driver guilty of the dangerous practice of "cutting in" during the heavy week-end traffic.

"Our inspectors are convinced that most of the week-end accidents which killed eight people and injured 150 others last week were caused by the prevailing custom of attempting to pass other vehicles on crowded thoroughfares, necessitating sudden cutting in in front of other machines," said Goodwin.

"Any operator who desires to frequent heavily-traveled highways must make up his mind that he cannot go faster than the line of travel. To kill and injure so many is sacrificing too much to greed and selfishness."

Goodwin requested the police authorities to take the registration numbers on the cars that dangerously "cut-in."

Daring Flier to Write "Advertiser" in Sky

Above, Captain Burr W. Leyson and Charles E. Jeffrey, standing beside the plane in which he will attempt to write "Boston Advertiser" in letters of smoke over Nantasket next Sunday, and Revere on Labor Day. Below is the Bristol plane in which Captain Leyson will make his novel attempt.

Capt. Leyson, Stunt Flier, Plans Novel Stunt at Nantasket Sunday

"BOSTON ADVERTISER."

In letters more than 1000 feet high these two words will be emblazoned across the sky at Nantasket Beach next Sunday afternoon before a quarter of a million people. And on a week from to morrow, Labor Day, the same words will be written in the clouds over Revere Beach during the afternoon.

For the first time in history an aviator will write the name of a great newspaper across the sky in letters so large that they will be seen by people for forty miles around. Nothing like it has ever been attempted before in America.

Captain Burr W. Leyson, Jr., former member of the Royal Air Force, will attempt the performance in a Bristol monoplane owned by Charles E. Jeffrey, a local agent for an automobile concern, weather permitting. It is expected that the largest crowds that have gathered at the beaches this season will be on hand to witness the spectacle.

MILE AND A HALF LONG.

To write "Boston Advertiser" across the sky, Captain Leyson will have to use every conceivable spin, dive and turn known to aviation. There will be loop-the-loops, nose-dives, tail-spins and every other stunt known to aviators.

Each letter will be more than 1,000 feet in length and the two words will occupy more than a mile and a half in the sky. The words will be written at an altitude of more than 2,000 feet.

A special smoke composition which flows from two enormous tanks on the top of the monoplane's wings will be Captain Leyson's ink. His plane will be his pen and he will guide it across the sky, up and down, with the rudder of the machine.

As soon as one letter is completed the smoke will be shut off. The second one will be drawn and then a third. So on it will go, the plane now shooting up in the air and now diving toward the ground with its fluid-like smoke writing the letters high among the clouds.

WILL TAKE AN HOUR.

Experts estimate it will take more than an hour to complete the writing of the two words.

During the writing of the words, Captain Leyson will have to use every bit of his knowledge of aviation. A slight air current or even a minute miscalculation in distance will ruin the letter. But he is confident he will not fail.

Not only will the great crowds that will be at Nantasket Beach next Sunday afternoon and at Revere Beach on Labor Day be able to see the writing in the sky, but everyone in a radius of twenty miles will be able to read the words plainly.

Besides writing the name of the Boston Advertiser in the sky, Captain Leyson will give an exhibition of stunt flying, nose dives, tail spins, loop-the-loops and an aerial circus.

Captain Leyson has made an enviable reputation as an aviator, both during the war and since the armistice, although he is but twenty-four years old. His home is in Toronto, Canada.

When the war broke out in 1914, he was a student at Toronto College. He enlisted in the Canadian forces and was transferred to the British 73rd Air Squadron soon after his arrival on the Continent.

ESCAPED FROM GERMANS.

Late in 1914 he was shot down while shooting at German troops in a road below him. Taken captive he was sent to a prison camp where he remained for five and one-half months. During this time he tried four times to escape but each proved unsuccessful. A fifth proved the truth of the adage, "Never give up" and he once more returned to the British air forces.

He went into Germany with the army of occupation as a member of the 41st Pursuit Squadron and remained there until 1919. Since that time he has been doing much stunt flying in all parts of the United States.

GIRL'S PLEA FREES MAN WHO ROBBED HER

"I have my ring, your Honor, please let him go."

Thus, Mary Hurley, Back Bay telephone operator living with her mother in the Albemarle Apartments on Albemarle street, saved William DeFolan, who the police say has a long court record.

DeFolan early yesterday snatched a diamond ring from Miss Hurley's finger on Massachusetts avenue near St. Botolph street.

Judge Creed placed DeFolan on probation.

WEEKS FAVORS THE ARMY BILL

Maintains, However, That Should Be at Least 13,000 Officers

Washington, Aug. 26.—Maintaining that there should be at least 13,000 regular army officers, Secretary Weeks, in a report to the House Military Affairs Committee, today approved the Curry bill, which, placing the maximum at 12,000 as provided in existing law, would retain a larger number of officers of the rank of captain and above and not not have as many lieutenants as now proposed. He also endorsed the bill "as a measure of real economy."

Important "overhead" duties, the development of preparedness through the National Guard, the organized reserves, the Reserve Officers' Corps and the Civilian Military Training Corps, he stated, make it essential, for most effective performance, to retain a sufficient detail of officers whose rank and experience are above that of lieutenant.

The present law, the Secretary explained, would necessitate a reduction to nearly 11,000, which would take out of the service many officers who "cannot well be spared," and necessitate appointment of additional lieutenants to bring the total to 12,000.

SHOE DEALER SUES COAL MILLIONAIRE

Haverhill, Aug. 26.—John Cashman, real estate operator, coal dealer and reputed as the wealthiest man in Haverhill, is charged with assault and battery by Fred Tassinari, a shoe dealer. Tassinari claims Cashman threw stones at him in Methuen recently when he remonstrated with the millionaire for blocking the highway with his automobile. The case will be aired in Methuen Court.

Peking, Aug. 26.

CHINA'S first extensive railroad strike, which recently tied up all traffic on the Peking-Hankow line, has been won by the strikers, according to announcement here today.

Among other demands of the workers granted by the railroad is an increase in wages of 10 cents a week.

CONVICT RACES TO SEE ILL SON

Doree, I. W. W. Leader, Gets Leave to Visit Child Near Death

Philadelphia, Aug. 26.—Speeding 1,310 miles across country from Fort Leavenworth Prison, Edward F. Doree, former dock worker and I. W. W. leader, who has received a leave of absence, raced to see his five-year-old son, "Bucky," whose battle against death may end at any moment.

The boy has constantly called for his father during the seven months he has been ill. Last April Doree made the same journey in custody of a United States marshal, when "Bucky" was believed to be dying of inflammation of the heart.

The father's long journey was rewarded with but a glimpse, through an opened door, of the face of his little boy. Then he returned to Kansas and once more was locked in his cell.

Senator Pepper interested himself in "Bucky" and the boy's father on that occasion, when clemency was extended Doree to let him come home to what everyone thought would be his son's death bed.

It was learned today from Senator Pepper's office that the movement for a pardon for Doree has progressed to a stage where the signature of the papers by President Harding is a certainty.

'WATCH ME GET JAG, OFFISHUR!'

But Agents Can't Find Source of Supply in Pawtucket

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 26.—Kentucky moonshiners had nothing on Pawtucket habitues of "Moonshine Alley" when it came to exercising ingenuity in the dispensing and imbibing of wet goods. Forty-eight hours after prohibition officials swooped down on the city's liquor lane, bar gates swung open and merry strains of "The Gang's All Here" floated out on the night air. Acting Chief Enforcement Agent John Exnicious strikes no terror into the hearts of the proprietors of the alley.

Calls for beer and near beer bring no response but a stentorian summons for a shot of moonshine is another matter. A classy cellar barroom is said to exist somewhere on the street. It is hard to get into and those who stagger out never reveal its location. One habitue went so far as to tell the police that a person makes his way to the rear of a building, down a narrow stairway and through a partitioned compartment, but that concluded his description.

A rumor is current among the elect that prohibition agents have their eagle eyes trained on the section but this seems to carry no special significance to the boys in the "wet belt."

The town of Nahant is preparing to tender a reception to their leading citizen, United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, on September 8. The affair will be a friendly non-political gathering and the Senator will address the townsfolk from the steps

To Run Again? Cox "Dodges" the Question

London, Aug. 26.

JAMES M. COX, who was defeated by President Harding two years ago, was asked today whether he would be a candidate for the presidency in 1924. He replied:

"I am more interested in the cause of progressive government in our country and the cause of international co-operation than in any personal candidacy."

Cox was highly pleased with Prime Minister Lloyd George.

"I wondered why he was the only man who maintained power through the war and after it," he said, "but I know why after I had been with him only a few minutes. He is a man of great power."

MALDEN WOMAN IN MOONSHINE CASE

Mrs. Alice Weir, owner of a house in Malden which was raided by government officials, was charged with having attempted to dispose of a quart of moonshine by Albert Kats, of Dorchester, in testimony before the United States District Court.

Max Sugarman is charged with manufacturing liquor in his home, at No. 213 Waite sts Malden. Mrs. Weir was recently found not guilty when charges were presented against her by the dry officials. She took the stand as a government witness in the case against Sugarman. Mrs. Weir owns the property in which the raid took place.

UNINTERESTING WIFE QUITS HIM

J. Sloat Fassett's Son Was Frank; She Gets a Decree

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 26.—Newton Crocker Fassett found his wife likeable but uninteresting. As a result Mrs. Fassett, daughter-in-law of J. Sloat Fassett, of Elmira, N. Y., millionaire, and former congressman, today is rejoicing in a divorce decree on the grounds of desertion.

Mrs. Fassett was Miss Lillian Griffin, and the husband from whom she has been separated is a reputed heir to the famous Crocker millions of San Francisco. Miss mother was a Crocker.

Mrs. Fassett submitted to the court this letter, whose authorship she credited to her husband:

"Please get it into your head, and keep it there, that you are absolutely nothing to me any longer, no matter what you may have been in the past. You are utterly strange and incomprehensible.

"I feel for you no affection, no hate; only a queer sort of puzzlement and a rather mild dislike.

"I grant all your likeable qualities. I have told them over to myself often enough, but they simply don't interest me.

"I don't like you, I don't like your outlook on life, your ideals, your friends, your hopes, your aspirations, nor do you honestly like mine."

R.M.BAKER'S ACCUSER IS DENOUNCED

Postoffice Clerks' President Called Unfit to Lead Federation

MEMBERS SPLIT OVER REMOVAL

John A. Kelley, Leader of Movement, Rapped as Politician

Charging that John A. Kelley, president of Local 100, National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, is not a fit man to represent the interests of any group of people and is a "disappointed office seeker," Frederick T. Gallagher, a member of the Federation, has called upon Kelley to resign.

Gallagher makes the charge in an open letter which he wrote after a stream of telegrams had been sent to high Washington officials demanding the removal of Postmaster Roland M. Baker, on the grounds of "malicious and illegal intimidation."

STAND BY BAKER.

Gallagher charges that the telegrams were sent by Kelley acting on his own initiative and that they did not express the views of members of the local. He declares the organization will repudiate all efforts to have Postmaster Baker removed. Many members of the local yesterday called on Mr. Baker and disavowed all connection with the telegrams.

Mr. Gallagher's letter in part follows:

"As a member of Boston local 100, National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, I will speak for myself and I know that I am not alone in the views that I intend to express here. John A. Kelley, clerk at the Coolidge Corner postoffice, is the president of this local and I am sorry to say that he has been a tremendous drawback and a menace to the clerks that belong to this organization.

"WRONG IMPRESSION."

"Mr. Kelley is not a fit man to represent the interests of any group of people, and more so a group of public servants, as he has conclusively shown by his tactics of the last two months. He has given members of Branch 100, with the aid of his advisory board, who have very little to say when the president wishes to do the talking, a very wrong impression of the conditions that exist throughout the postal district that concerns their welfare.

"Is the honorable and distinguished gentleman from the Coolidge Corner station playing politics, or is he trying to disrupt the morale of the Boston postal district? Is he representing the entire membership of Branch 100 when he demands that our postmaster, Roland M. Baker, by far the most humane man there is in the city of Boston handling men, be removed? Must the entire organization be blamed for the actions of one who is serving his own selfish interests, and not the interests of the rank and file of the clerks?

"SPARES NO ONE."

"One officer of this organization goes so far as to attack members of his own organization in order to further his own ambitions. He spares no one to gain his point. Such a person is John A. Kelley, president of Branch 100.

"Kelley is a disappointed office seeker, and has used this means as revenge by attacking the postmaster.

"In closing I wish you to consider this brief summary and after due consideration be a man and either resign or change your attitude and represent your organization in a true light and gain the respect and confidence of all concerned."

'Face Cream' to Give Wind Tips To Aviators

Paris, Aug. 26.

AN official government report today revealed that a secret chemical compound has been found which, when used upon the face, enables an aviator to detect the slightest variation of the wind.

French airmen say the "bird face" is mainly responsible for the success of German aviators with the motorless "glider" airplane.

3 DEAD, 50 HURT IN FRENCH RIOT

Troops Mutiny, Many Arrested While Battle Rages

Havre, Aug. 26 (By Associated Press).—The Franklin Club, in which a thousand rioting strikers had taken refuge after a battle with troops this afternoon, was captured by the troops late tonight.

The total casualties for the day number three killed and about fifty wounded, including both soldiers and civilians.

The fighting began about 4:30 in the afternoon and lasted an hour and a half. Strikers attacked a cycle patrol, smashing the machines and routing the patrolmen to flight. Cavalry came to the rescue and attacked the strikers, who in the meantime had erected a barricade, firing upon the advancing troops, which finally stormed the obstructions and dislodged the strikers.

The rioters then took refuge in the Franklin Club Building, which was surrounded by troops. The strikers were apparently well supplied with arms, ammunition and of food.

One regiment of infantry stationed in Havre refused to take part in the fighting against the strikers and a number of the soldiers have been placed under arrest.

Several hundred Americans are crowded in the hotels here awaiting the sailing of the French Liner Savoie, the departure of which, tentatively fixed for tomorrow, is uncertain due to the complete tieup of the port through the general strike.

HOWITZER CAPTAIN GOES UNDER KNIFE

Worcester, Aug. 26.—Capt. Philip E. Coe, commanding officer of howitzer company, 181st Infantry, M. N. G., who was slated to go to Camp Devens today with his company for a two weeks tour of duty, was stricken with appendicitis and operated on in Memorial Hospital.

Lieut. Leon H. Haynes, Capt. Coe's assistant, has taken temporary command of the unit. There is no second lieutenant in the company.

ARABS START NEW PALESTINE FIGHT

Cairo, Aug. 26.—Conditions in Palestine are growing critical as a result of the conflict between the Arabs and Jews. The Arabs in the kingdom of Hedjas are reported to be preparing to send a delegation to America to raise funds to fight the Zionist movement. There is apparently an Islamic movement to fight outside influences in the old Turkish Empire.

ASTOR HEADS CRUISE UP EASTERN COAST

New York, Aug. 26.—Two eagle boats commanded by Vincent Astor, lieutenant in the naval reserve forces, went to sea today on a cruise of two weeks off the New England coast.

The little fighting craft will call at Newport Thursday for inspection by Rear Admiral William S. Sims. The ships will touch at Block Island, Marthas Vineyard, Nantucket and Provincetown.

BROTHER OF ROLLINS IS HELD IN NET

Robert, the Youngest, Is Caught in Raids After Holdup

Robert Rollins, youngest brother of Charles and George Rollins, who are convicted of murdering two chain store managers, is under arrest as a result of the police dragnet spread over the city following four recent holdups. In one of the robberies two pretty young girls lured their victim to a spot where accomplices attacked and robbed him.

Rollins was arrested on suspicion following a brutal attack on Walter Ring and Thomas Josepha in which a former lost a gold watch and $35. Both Rollins was arrested George A. Kinsman of Dorchester. Both men will be arraigned in the Dorchester Court tomorrow morning charged with the crime.

GIVE NAMES THEM.

According to stories told the police by witnesses, Billig and Josepha were eating in a Columbia road lunchroom when two young men entered and viciously attacked them. The fight Billig lost his watch and the money. Rollins and Kinsman were arrested in another Dorchester lunchroom and both were identified by the victims of the attack.

Joseph McDonald of No. 32 Greenwood street, Roxbury, met two attractive young girls on a downtown street and accepted their invitation to take a walk. Near Gold street in South Boston, the girls left him to converse with two male companions. Shortly afterward he was set upon and severely beaten. He staggered into the South Boston police station and was later taken to the City Hospital.

ROBBERS DESCRIBED.

Four thugs leaped from a sedan on Commercial and Clark streets, both End, and without speaking a word, set upon Martin Griffin of Hokline. He fell to the street in a semi-conscious condition and the three men went through his pockets, taking $20, and then speeding away in the automobile. He gave a description of the men to the police. Wonderment as to the result the beating of the French Liner Savoie, the departure of which, tentatively fixed for tomorrow, is uncertain due to the complete tieup of the port through the general strike.

ACTRESS REFUSES TO PROSECUTE CULPRIT

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 26.—Jack Bergen, arrested with four others in 1921, charged with robbing the apartment of Edna "Bonnie" Nee, actress, was released under bail, and the case is still dormant. Police say they had been unable to get the actress back to appear against Bergen. Jewelry, furs and wearing apparel valued altogether at about $2,000 were stolen.

SMOKING ON STREETS O.K., SAYS 'SUFF'

Haverhill Woman Declares Her Sex Demands Right

Haverhill, Aug. 26.—If any attempt is made to prohibit women from smoking on the streets, the attempt may react as a boomerang on the men who make it, declares Mrs. Grace H. Oatman, prominent clubwoman and suffragist.

Mrs. Oatman said that in retaliation the women might get together and start an anti-tobacco crusade on their own hook with the result that men would have to go without the comforting solace of the weed.

"It never was wise for a man to say what a woman should not do," declares Mrs. Oatman, "because women and hens have an inclination to go opposite to the direction in which they are being driven. Especially in these modern times it would be useless to put ideas into the women's heads about smoking, for tables might be turned and the women might elect to walk down Main street without having the men puff cigarette smoke in their faces.

"Think what it would mean to have the women start on an anti-tobacco crusade. Then thank the city marshal for saying the women can do as they choose about smoking on the street, for now I am sure be greatly surprised if you see a women so doing.

"During the 18 years that I have resided in this city I have never, except on the stage, seen a woman smoking anywhere. In fact the only woman I ever saw smoke in my life was my grandfather's sister, their bedroom windows just below clay pipe to my childish horror."

"I'M STILL ALIVE," OBREGON WIRES

Mexico City, Aug. 26.—"I authorize you to say that I am still alive," telegraphed President Alvaro Obregon to the International News Service today in response to a message saying that a report had been circulated in Wall street in New York on to the effect that he was dead. President Obregon has about recovered from his illness and expects to resume his official duties.

WET KITE ON WIRE STARTS $1,400 FIRE

Worcester, Aug. 26.—A wet kite on an electric wire caused a short circuit that started a blaze on a pole at the plant of the New England Power Co., today. A regulator owned by the Worcester Electric Light Co., valued at $1,400, was destroyed.

Gives Blood to Save Wife Who Deserted Him

Cleveland, Aug. 26.

IN a desperate effort to save the life of his seventeen-year-old wife who deserted him two months ago, Earl Sandels gave his blod in a transfusion operation. The wife, Martha, mother of his eight-month-old baby, may live.

Mrs. Sandels, who, it is said, had been brooding over having left her husband, shot herself in the home of Harold Wilks, for whom she had been housekeeper. Upon hearing that blood transfusion was the only hope of saving the girl's life, Sandels begged surgeons to accept his blood.

Within an hour the couple lay side by side on operating tables.

RAIL PASSENGERS RESCUED BY AUTOS

Roodhouse, Ill., Aug. 26 (By the Associated Press). — Passengers stranded here on the Chicago & Alton road were taken to their destinations or to another railroad by automobile today. Following the railroad of clerks last night and the refusal of trainmen to operate trains because of "unsafe conditions" all traffic through Roodhouse today was at a standstill.

HAVE YOU EVER TAKEN MIND PHOTO?

No Camera Is Needed to Record Your Mental Features

Have you taken a mental photo of yourself yet?

Everybody's doing it, so get in line and take yours, too.

You don't need a camera—you don't need to fix yourself up, because this is a MENTAL photo—a picture of your mind.

And the way to do it is to answer the questions you see listed here today under the name of Miss Evelyn Katz of No. 65 Walnut street, Chelsea.

The Advertiser wants your Mental Photo. Answer the questions and send them to the Mental Photo Editor, Daily Advertiser No. 399 Washington street.

Perhaps your Mental Photo will be worth some money to you. There are weekly awards amounting to $50 distributed among the six best mental photos for the past week. The first award is for $25 and five others for $5 each. So this is a chance to see yourself as others see you, a chance to have some fun, and a chance to win some easy money.

Try it. Answer the questions quickly, jotting down the first answer that comes into your head. The result will be you.

Every day during the week Mental Photos received by the Daily Advertiser will be printed and the six winners chosen at the end of the week, and announced in Monday's Advertiser. Read over the mental photo shown today. You will understand how it gives a clear insight into the mind of the person writing it. Miss Katz may soon be chosen as a winner.

Send in yours today and get some of the $50 which is awarded every Monday morning. If you have already sent yours in, look for your name as a winner tomorrow. Because your mental photo hasn't been printed, does not mean it may not be one of the winners.

TURK'S BRIDE HAD 'HAREM' OF HER OWN

In Counting Children Husband Found One Too Many

HAD MATE HERE, ONE IN TURKEY

The American Helpmeet Balked at Paying for Family's Support

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 26.—Evidence to show that a Turkish wife and not her husband was the possessor of a harem was introduced at a non-support hearing here today.

Kosar Boghasian, Oriental rug merchant of Washington, was haled into court by his wife Fatima, who charged that he refused to support her and his two children. She said that she was penniless and compelled to rely upon public charity for support.

Her Oriental charm swayed the hearts of judge and jury until they heard her husband's story which she did not deny. Boghasian charged that the woman had taken another husband in Turkey and that the second child was the result of this second matrimonial venture.

The judge dismissed the case and advised the woman that her only recourse was through the civil courts.

"I wooed my wife under Turkish rules and I promised her I would be faithful," Kosar told the court. "I said that I would not follow in the footsteps of my fathers by keeping a harem.

"For you, and you alone, I live, I told her. She promised to be faithful, and so we were married. We lived for a while on the outskirts of Constantinople in a little cottage tucked away under the hills. A child was born to us.

"Then I decided that Turkey offered nothing for me so I left for America and told my wife when I kissed her good-by that as soon as I had money enough I would send for her. I was poor and penniless when I landed in New York. I started a store and studied in night school, putting away every spare penny to bring my family here.

"When I got money enough I sent it to her and told her to come. She did and I brought her to Bridgeport. Then the second child came. I was not the father and finally she confessed that she had another husband in Turkey. Then I left."

With tears in her eyes and with the two young children in her arms the wife pleaded with the court for assistance.

LOOK FOR THE WHITE SWEATER GIRL AT REVERE TODAY

SHE WILL HAVE $100 FOR YOU

Don't Forget—You Must Have a Copy of the Advertiser With You

DON'T STAND IN ONE SPOT; STROLL ALONG

Somebody Will Be the Lucky One; It May Be YOU

"You are the White Sweater Girl of the Boston Advertiser."

These words, spoken at the psychological moment on Revere Beach today may bring $100 into your family's "First National."

Just picture it. Here you are, strolling along the old boulevard with a copy of today's Advertiser in your hand. (Don't forget the copy of the Advertiser, because without it, all the magic words in the world wouldn't turn into $100) Well, as we've said before, there you are strolling down the boulevard, looking at all the girls you meet who are wearing the garb you've been studying all week in the Daily Advertiser.

Suddenly you see someone you think is the one for whom you're searching. You grasp your Advertiser firmly in your hand, walk up to her and say the magic words and there you are—with a wrinkle in your forehead and a hundred in your hand. Simple, isn't it—if you're lucky.

OUT FOR A GOOD TIME.

Now, while Miss White Sweater is going to be a busy young person today. She isn't going to be standing in one spot all day with the hot sun broiling her into a nice bright red. She is going to be all over the place. And you'll pretty nearly have to be the same way, if you hope to bring home the hundred.

Today she is out to have a good time, this young lady of the sweater.

She is going to act just as she had the whole day to herself. She is going to forget the thousands of you who are looking for her and tend strictly to her own affairs. Since affairs include everything in the line of a show there is on Revere Beach. So, if you're very anxious to find her, we advise you to look in any one of the following places:

Jack Rabbit Coaster
The Dragon Gorge Coaster
The Rough Rider Merry-Go-Round
The Oriental Coaster
The Aeroplane Whirl
The Great American Derby
The Derby Racer Coaster
Flagadrome Merry-Go-Round
The Thunderbolt Coaster
The Thriller — The Love Nest
The Dodgem — The Old Mill
The Pit

SOME SUGGESTIONS.

So don't spend all your time on the beach or the boardwalk. She will be along, surely, some time during the day, but she may not be there when you are. Just take a peep into every place you can think of. We give you these places as suggestions.

Maybe, you'll find her leaning up against a hot-dog wagon consuming a "red- hot." Maybe she will be playing the ring game. Maybe she will be watching the bathers—Oh, maybe, almost any thing or any place.

So sharpen up your eyes, go down to Revere Beach Sunday, and you may be the very one to see her and speak to her first.

Meanwhile, lots of luck. And if you don't succeed Sunday, try, try again.

INDICT GUILD TWICE AS AN EMBEZZLER

Honolulu, Aug. 26 (By the Associated Press).—Two indictments charging embezzlement have been returned by the grand jury against John Guild, it was announced today.

One charged the former secretary of Alexander Baldwin with embezzling $37,500 from that firm and the second with embezzling $25,000 in bonds from the Protestant Episcopal Church Corporation of Hawaii, of which he was treasurer.

Guild, his counsel announced, probably will plead guilty. It was said Guild's alleged shortage would approximate $1,000,000.

HARDING ACTS IN OIL PROBE

By Universal Service.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Revelations of the secret agreement entered into between Secretary of the Interior Fall and the Sinclair Oil interests, whereby the latter were granted a monopoly in supplying fuel oil to the navy, were the subject of a White House conference.

Publication of this agreement within the last week is understood to have been responsible for Secretary Fall remaining closeted with President Harding for nearly an hour after the other cabinet members had left the White House.

Secretary Fall refused to comment upon his conference with the President. There was no statement forthcoming from the White House.

It is charged that under the terms of the contract signed by Messrs. Fall and Sinclair, the government will lose $15,000,000, in addition to a possible $9,000,000 bonus, and that all oil developed from the Teapot Dome reservation will be sold to the navy at market prices arbitrarily established by the Sinclair companies in agreement with the Standard Oil Company.

The contract has been openly condemned by Governor Robert B. Carey of Wyoming and probably will be the subject of further attacks in Congress.

FIRE CAPT. KILLED BY FALL OFF ROOF

Fall River, Aug. 26.—David L. Bradford of No. 560 Walnut street, for many years a captain in the fire department, was killed today when he fell from the roof of a house. Mr. Bradford was born in Plymouth and was a direct descendant of the eighth generation of Governor Bradford.

obey the orders of Militiades, instead of fighting and commanding separately, each of ten generals commanding, supreme, for one day. Thus he did for Greece what the Allies did recently, when they decided to let Foch rule all.

Having supplied the idea that won the battle, Aristides fought like a demon, and then, trusted with the collection and division of spoils, proved himself absolutely honest.

"Has Aristides done you any wrong?" Aristides asked, as he wrote his own name on the shell that would vote for his banishment.

"No," replied the ignorant voter. "And I do not even know him, but it irritates me to hear him everywhere called 'The Just.'"

Sure enough, Aristides was banished at that election, chiefly by the power of his rival, Themistocles. From his banishment, he returned, the night before the battle of Salamis, making his way at risk of his life through the Persian fleet, to help and fortify with his advice Themistocles, who had banished him. He made the Greek leaders adopt Themistocles' plan, which won victory, and saved Greece from Persian dominion.

Greece took back Aristides, and later banished Themistocles, his enemy. Themistocles was received with open arms by the Persian king, whom he had beaten. The revenues of a great city were given to him, he had palaces, everything, and he committed suicide later rather than obey Persia's order to help fight the ungrateful Greeks. Banishment of good men, or killing them, as in Socrates' case, was a specialty with the Greeks.

But it is not so with Americans, able to read, write, think and remember.

Therefore it does not seem probable to the rest of the country that California will fail to reward Hiram Johnson, as she did last time, with the honor of such a Senatorial vote as no State has ever given to one of its sons.

When Hughes was defeated, Johnson on the Republican ticket with Hughes was elected with something like 300,000 votes to spare. CALIFORNIA IS LOYAL TO HER OWN LOYAL CITIZENS.

If, however, the inconceivable should happen and California should fail to re-elect Hiram Johnson, it would be a very good thing financially for the latter's children. Their father would have some money to leave them. He will never have any while he remains in office.

You can imagine how eagerly Hiram Johnson would be welcomed as a practicing lawyer by Wall Street gentlemen that are so eager to get him out of the Senate—where he represents California, instead of representing them.

They would say to Johnson, "Come on with us, Senator. We will show you how to make some REAL money. Don't waste your time with politics. We will let bygones be bygones, and make you a rich man in five years. And they would do it. Any one of a dozen big corporation law firms would gladly guarantee Senator Johnson ten times what the nation pays him, and twice that.

But none of all that will happen. The Greeks banished Aristides to oblige Themistocles, also a really great man, one of the greatest Greece ever produced. To do that was bad enough.

Anybody who thinks that California would banish from the Senate her own fighting son to oblige a nicely dressed and extremely good looking clothing store dummy DOES NOT KNOW CALIFORNIA. In that State they like real men, and they have one that the whole nation respects in Hiram Johnson.

CRIMINAL INDICTMENTS TO CHECK 'FRAMED' DIVORCES

MICHAEL COLLINS' BLOOD ON HEAD OF DE VALERA, SAYS BOSTON ATTORNEY

Daniel T. O'Connell Lays Ireland's Woes at Door of Former President of Republic

By BEN BOYDEN.

"Ramon De Valera is responsible for Ireland's present woes, culminating in the murder of Michael Collins."

Daniel T. O'Connell, prominent Boston lawyer, former director of the Irish Bureau in Washington and member of the National Council, Friends of Irish Freedom, last night threw down the gage of battle to the followers of De Valera by asserting that the erstwhile leader of the Irish cause is responsible for the death of the romantic and brilliant Michael Collins.

The statement, made exclusively to the Boston Sunday Advertiser, contains a severe arraignment of De Valera and calls on Irish sympathizers in America to drive him out of public life, and by doing so help end bloodshed in troubled Ireland.

"Compromise with De Valera," said O'Connell, "is futile and until Ireland arouses herself to stop the De Valera madness of action, bloodshed will not cease."

MAY BRING PEACE.

For fifteen years Attorney O'Connell has been active in the cause of Irish freedom and has been a prominent figure at conferences held in this country for the advancement of the cause.

In his statement Attorney O'Connell says:

"If the death of Collins can bring to the De Valera adherents both in Ireland and America, a realization of the truly awful injury they are doing in Ireland, by fostering a rebellion, then, regrettable as is the tragic end of this patriot's life, will mark the starting point of peace for Ireland.

"It is idle to give expression to hopes; and it is moral cowardice to avoid speaking plainly and truthfully. Hopes weigh as nothing against the selfish plans or views of an individual who unwisely or unjustly wields a power generously given him by a people led to repose their trust in him before a real test of ability and leadership was possible.

"De Valera is responsible for Ireland's present woes. He has divided Ireland's friends in Ireland as he did Ireland's friends in America. His selfish, harsh, demand that all agree with him, and his refusal to agree with those who honestly visualize victory won by methods other than those favored by himself, spells ruin and disaster to Ireland.

CALLS DE VALERA LIAR.

"De Valera is not honest or truthful in appealing to Ireland to stand to the end for a Republic; neither is he honest in asking Americans to stand with him in fighting for a Republic. De Valera is not for a Republic, and he uses the word Republic, with the malicious intent to draw the support of those who want Ireland to be a Republic.

"De Valera is on record for having Ireland an integral part of the British Empire. You cannot have a Republic within an Empire. De Valera knows this, yet with bold misrepresentation he arouses Ireland to bloodshed, simply that he may have power to enforce his views.

"It is maddening to think this one man can cause Irish citizens to shoot and kill patriots of the type of Collins. But in action, it is now practically the same. DeValera encouraged every sort of tactics distinctive of the character, influence and ability of those who disagreed with him. We did not have bloodshed, but we did have a division that brought woe to Ireland in seeing America divided.

"De Valera will continue his tactics as long as he receives encouragement from America. Stop the support America gives him, and bloodshed in Ireland will soon cease. He will not yield until compelled to do so, for he is not generous, broad-minded or reasonable in yielding his egotistical insistency upon always having his own way.

"Until Ireland arouses herself to stop the DeValera madness of action, bloodshed will not cease. Compromise with him is futile. Griffith opposed any compromise with De Valera. Collins, more trustful, generous and forgiving did compromise. DeValera at once broke the pledge of understanding based on the compromise, and now Collins is but a sweet loving memory, his life ended when Ireland needed his most."

Lovers of Ireland in this city are divided concerning the effect that the death of Collins will have on the Free State.

Despite their differences of opinion they are in accord when voicing their sorrow concerning the tragic death of the youthful leader and are unanimous in the belief that Ireland has lost a noble and striking personality.

Joseph H. O'Neil, president of the Federal Trust Company takes an optimistic view of the situation in Ireland and while deploring the murder of Collins, feels confident that it will serve to reconcile the fighting factions.

"I have met nearly all of the great Irish leaders of the last thirty years," said the Boston banker, "but never have I met a more able or loyal man than Collins. Ireland has received a severe blow and a blow that will be felt; but the cause for which he fought cannot be defeated.

"It is impossible to eliminate such a powerful leader without feeling the loss, but I am certain that the cause so near and dear to the heart of Collins will triumph. When it does, Ireland will forge ahead and surprise the world. I know the temper of the Irish people. They are able people and will make good when they settle their differences.

"The death of Collins will undoubtedly hasten the end of hostilities because it will demonstrate to the Irish people the futility of continuing the conflict which has cost such a frightful price in human blood and treasure."

SEES PEACE HOPE.

Attorney Herbert A. Kenny, nephew of the famous Allen of the Allen-Larkin-O'Brien (Manchester martyrs) shares a similar opinion. He says:

"The death of Collins will undoubtedly soften the bitterness of the warring factions and develop a spirit of unity. It will surely have a sobering influence on the people and actually help to bring them together.

"I may be over-optimistic but I really feel that the death of the charming and able Michael Collins will end the debacle in Ireland. The people of Ireland must realize that men of the Collins type are too precious to lose and to prevent another tragedy of similar character will get together and settle their differences in a proper way."

There are others who believe that the death of Collins will only serve to widen the breach between the Free Staters and the De Valera faction.

GREAT LEADERS GONE.

Among those who share this opinion is John J. Cummings, Boston lawyer and democratic candidate for the lieutenant governorship nomination. He says:

"The deaths of Griffith and Collins have removed the great leaders of the Free State cause. New figures will rise to take their places but before they do and before they can attain the power of Collins there is but little hope that the warfare can be ended. I am afraid that the tragic death of Collins will merely serve to widen the breach between the two factions and lead to fresh outbreaks. It is a deplorable situation but one that cannot be easily corrected."

Victories Won by Free State Troops

Dublin, Aug. 26.—While the body of Michael Collins rested in state in the City Hall, viewed by thousands, reports were received by the Free State ministry of defence of many victories over the irregulars along the western battle front.

The cabinet considered reorganization of the government as well as the future policy to be pursued toward the rebels. The suggestion was urged that the irregulars be treated as "murderers and outlaws," but Richard Mulcahy, commander-in-chief of the Free State army, advocated a continuation of Collins' policy of leniency toward the rebels.

ATTEMPT TO LYNCH.

It was reported from the South that mobs attempted to lynch irregular prisoners who were suspected of having had something to do with Collins' death.

There is keen public interest as to the successors of Collins and Griffith. It is considered likely that their places will be permanently filled by Mulcahy and William T. Cosgrave, respectively soldier and civil statesman.

The city hall furnished the stage for scenes of deep tragic and dramatic quality. First the plain coffin holding the body of Michael Collins, draped with the tri-color and guarded by officers of Collins' staff, filled thousands of men, women and children. Collins' body was attired in the uniform in which he met his death. The still hands clasped a rosary.

KISSED THE DEAD.

Beside the coffin were candles which flickered with the gusts of the air. Occasionally the silence was broken by a priest chanting a prayer or the sobbing of some grief stricken man or woman. The coffin was open and often some mourner knelt and kissed the dead man's brow.

Prisoners to Hear Harding Radio Speeches

By Universal Service.

Washington, Aug. 26.

"STONE walls will not a prison make" in the district jail, beginning next week, when a radio set will be installed for the reception of baseball scores, concerts and speeches.

Radiophonic waves, which made no job at all of traveling through stone, or even Harveyized steel, will bring in to the prisoners talks from President Harding and other leading men, according to plans announced today by Captain Peake, assistant superintendent of the jail.

"It will of be long before radio sets will be established in all penal institutions," said Captain Peake. "They will keep the prisoners in a better frame of mind and will prove an education for illiterate inmates."

SUES MRS. 'SPRECKELS' FOR $30,000

Wife Who Didn't Sell Husband Asks Damages

Oakland, Cal., Aug. 26.—Suit for $30,000 damages against Mrs. Edith Huntington Wakefield, divorced wife of Rudolph John D. Spreckels, Jr., for the alleged alienation of the affections of her husband, Rodney Kendrick, newspaper artist, was filed by Mrs. Nell Kendrick here today. Mrs. Kendrick also filed suit for divorce, alleging misconduct. She asked $100 a month alimony.

The suits were the outcome of incidents in the Wakefield home at Sausalito and elsewhere, wherein Mrs. Wakefield was alleged to have urged Mrs. Kendrick to divorce her husband on the understanding that she and her fourteen-months old daughter June would be well provided for.

The alleged relations between Kendrick and Mrs. Wakefield began July 4, 1923 and continued to August 26, according to the divorce complaint. The Kendricks were married in Elizabeth, N. J., March 3, 1918 and separated July 15, 1922, the complaint said.

"BECAME INFATUATED."

Mrs. Wakefield "became infatuated" with Kendrick in March of this year and sought by "arts, artifices and other means" to win him, according to the alienation complaint. On March 15, the plaintiff went to camp in Stockton, Cal., and remained there till August 1, "during which time the defendant lavished her affection on Kendrick," the complaint continues.

"In June the defendant persuaded the plaintiff's husband to leave his home in Oakland and go to her home in Sausalito and thereafter he ceased to be interested in condition of plaintiff," Mrs. Kendrick's complaint adds.

TELLS OF OFFER.

Mrs. Wakefield, the complaint avers, made the proposition that she should obtain a divorce from Kendrick and that "she would see to it that Mrs. Kendrick and the child did not suffer." An offer of $100 a month for the maintenance of Mrs. Kendrick and the child was made by Mrs. Wakefield, according to the complaint.

Mrs. Kendrick said that she refused to be a party to the offer. Later Mrs. Wakefield and Kendrick went on a camping trip to the Stanras, returning August 2, the complaint alleged.

Mrs. Wakefield admitted her affection for Kendrick, but denied making the $100 offer to Mrs. Kendrick, saying that this offer came from another source.

BONUS ACTION TO BE RUSHED

Senate Expected to Pass Measure By Tuesday

(By Universal Service)

Washington, Aug. 26.—Passage of the soldiers' bonus bill by 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon is expected under an unanimous consent agreement reached in the Senate today.

The agreement, proposed by Senator Robinson, Democrat, of Arkansas, provides that the bill shall be held before the Senate until final action is taken, and that after 6 p. m. on Monday, senators will be limited to one speech of not more than 20 minutes on any amendment.

In order to facilitate consideration of the bill, the Senate will convene Monday at 11 o'clock, and a night session probably will be held.

SPEAK FOR BILL.

After the voluntary cloture agreement was effected, Senators Ashurst of Arizona, and Randell, Louisiana, Democrats, spoke in favor of the bill. Senator McNary, Republican, of Oregon, offered his reclamation amendment.

This provides for a revolving fund of $300,000,000 for reclaiming arid and swamp land for settlement by ex-service men, under a system of government aid. In lieu of the other features of the bill, the ex-service men would be given preference in the reclamation work and first call on the land, with credit toward payment equal to the amount to which they would be entitled under the basis of compensation provided.

"SACRED OBLIGATION."

Senator Randell said the country owes a "sacred, moral obligation" to the ex-service men, adding:

"Friends of the measure recognize that the nation owes these ex-service men, in all fairness and honesty, the adjusted compensation provided in the pending bill, and they are determined it shall be paid without further delay. The time for action has come.

"The shameful attitude of the government towards its soldiers since the end of the war stands out in bold contrast when compared with the treatment of soldiers of other countries by their governments."

Sales Tax Added in Bonus Bill

By Universal Service.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Senator Smoot offered in the Senate a sales tax amendment to the soldier bonus bill, providing a levy of one-fourth of one per cent. on the sale of every article or commodity manufactured or imported, the money thus raised to be used to defray the cost of the soldiers' compensation.

The amendment accords with suggestions made by the Hearst newspapers and in the petitions bearing millions of signatures which have been presented to Congress asking that the sales tax be employed in financing the bonus.

Congress for War at Once; Bugs the Foe

Washington, Aug. 26.

WAR on "bugs" around the Capitol was declared today by the House of Representatives.

By a joint resolution passed after a rollicking debate, the House authorised the Capitol architect to proceed to the extermination of "insects" wherever found.

Representative Garner, Democrat, Texas, misreading the resolution in a way to make it apply only to the Senate office building, made a parliamentary inquiry as to whether "the Senate is the only place where there are bugs."

LINCOLN'S TAX RATE IS UP $3

Lincoln, Mass., Aug. 26.—Because of a smaller return from the State income tax, the tax rate for this wealthy little town will be $3 higher than last year, or $21 on $1,000. THIS is the highest tax rate ever imposed here.

Four thousand dollars were cut from the State income tax returns, making it only $21,000. Then, too, the town appropriations were greater this year than last.

The town now has a valuation of about $2,200,000, an increase of about $50,000 over last year. All the gain has been in real estate, as personal property has lost slightly through the fact that fewer cows and horses are now kept in town.

NATIONALIST RIOT ON 'BERLIN SETTLEMENT'

Munich, Aug. 26 (By Associated Press).—Nationalist associations, in defiance of the police, held a demonstration protesting against "the Berlin settlement" of the defense laws. During the affair there were conflicts between Nationalists and Communists.

APPEAL SAVES DOOMED MAN

Woods Gets New Trial as Alleged Burner of His Wife

By Universal Service

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 26.—Omer R. Woods, convicted wife murderer, former internal revenue agent, and one-time probate judge at Boise, Idaho, will not die September 1, as was the sentence of the court.

An appeal to the Supreme Court, which that body once refused tohear, has been made a second time and will be heard. The decision automatically gives the convicted man an indefinite stay of execution.

Woods had chosen to face a firing squad of picked marksmen rather than to submit to the hangman's noose in expiation of the crime of which he had been convicted. Utah's capital punishment law gives the convicted person to choose between hanging and shooting as the death penalty.

Woods' case may be considered when the Supreme Court convenes in October. It is very probable, according to the prosecuting attorney, the appeal may not be heard until the court meets in February.

Woods was convicted of "strangling beating, choking and burning" his wife, Marietta Woods, to death in the apartment.

The motive for the murder is believed to have been the collection of money on insurance policies which Mrs. Woods carried. It was shown during the trial Woods urged his wife to take out insurance, one policy providing for payment of $10,000 if she died in a burning building, and another for $3,000, which would double if the woman died in a burning building, each naming Woods as beneficiary.

According to the prosecution, Woods struck his wife on the jaw with a milk bottle, partly shattering the jaw, and loosening several teeth. He then choked her and strangled her until dead or unconscious and left the apartment, going to a nearby drug store. There, it is contended, he purchased a quantity of benzine and returning to the apartment placed his wife's body upon the bed, saturated the bed with benzine and set to it.

GIRL LEADS SEARCH FOR 4 ASSAILANTS

Worcester, Aug. 26.—In a search for four autoists who kidnaped her and attacked her in a local cemetery Tuesday night, Miss Mary A. Healy, thirty-three, of No. 16 Fremont street, left here tonight with three police officers for Peabody.

It is believed the machine used by the four men is owned in Peabody. Miss Healy told the police one of the men stepped out of the machine and dragged her into it.

COURTS MUST BE PURGED OF FALSE TESTIMONY AND SHADY LAWYERS, IS DECREE

Bay State Judges to Inform District Attorneys of Every Charge of Martial Infidelity; Investigations and Legal Aciion Will Follow Misstatements.

Don't go into a Massachusetts divorce court and try to break your marriage bonds unless you have a legitimate case.

If you have a flimsy case against your spouse and attempt to bolster it up by injecting fake testimony, you will get into trouble and find yourself in the clutches of the district attorney.

Also exercise care concerning the filing of infidelity charges—because they will be investigated. If they are substantiated by the court's investigators your spouse will be sent to jail for violating one of the sacred commandments, and if they are not substantiated, you will find yourself in very hot water.

WILL PURGE COURT.

These are just a few tips that emanate from the Superior Court judges.

The dignified gentlemen who wear black robes and serve as arbiters in your domestic rows have made up their minds that the divorce courts must be purged of false testimony and shady attorneys.

Massachusetts is earning an unsavory reputation in regard to the number of divorce libels filed and the number of divorces granted. Being zealous of the Bay State's moral standing in the great family of States, the judges are going to do a bit of house cleaning.

An effort will be made to clear the dockets of thousands of cases, and as the first step toward checking the divorce wave the courts are going to wage war against those persons guilty of infidelity.

TO SEEK INDICTMENTS.

Every judge, after hearing evidence that a respondent in a divorce case has been guilty of wrong doing, will report the facts immediately to the district attorney in the county where the principals live.

Indictments will follow and criminal trials—and convictions.

Many of the judges feel that a great number of cases involving infidelity charges are deliberate frame-ups between the principals.

Both parties are desirous of getting a divorce and to make certain of it the husband agrees to be found in the company of a woman who is named as the home-breaker. A certain type of lawyer encourages the scheme and helps to hoodwink the judge.

WILL CHECK SYSTEM.

A thorough investigation of such cases will result in many convictions and serve to check the system.

From the Berkshire Hills to Boston the courts are clogged with divorce libels and the number increases daily. Middlesex, Essex, Suffolk, Hampden, Norfolk and in fact every county in the State has a great number of divorce cases waiting trial. The judges hope to clear the dockets during the coming Fall and Winter sessions and to do so will conduct special sessions.

At the present time more than a score of divorce cases in Middlesex and Suffolk counties are being investigated and in several cases perjury indictments are expected when the grand juries convene next month.

RENO WOMAN LAWYER ASKS EASIER DIVORCE LAWS HERE

By ELEANOR EARLY

The trouble with Massachusetts is that there are not enough divorces!

Taking it from Attorney Dorothy Paldine of Reno. The young woman lawyer has come to Boston with the avowed intent of persuading Massachusetts legislators to make divorce easier.

Already one marriage out of every ten in this State ends in the divorce court. Statisticians have compiled astonishing figures to prove that they are multiplying every year. Our October dockets list the names of tens of thousands who seek relief from a marital freedom. Never before has there been such a widespread clamor for disruption of the tie that binds.

"But that is nothing," points out Miss Paldine. "In Nevada, where I come from, our divorces average one to every one and half marriages. Since reaching Boston, I have conferred with prominent professional and business women, in order to obtain a consensus of opinion. It is perfectly evident that there is a widespread demand for more lenient divorce laws.

"QUICK AND PAINLESS."

"I am organizing now a committee of women voters to introduce the fight of Nevada feminists into your Massachusetts Legislature. We want divorce to be made quick, simple and painless from coast to coast.

"Marriage has ceased to be a discipline, and has become an experiment. When individual cases are not a success, why prolong them?

"There is an admirable statute book of Norway which reads: 'Divorce is a relief from misfortune; not a crime.' We would like to inscribe those words on the statutes of every State in the Union.

"Massachusetts women are more progressive than their husbands. Bay State men are stand patters when it comes to law affecting marriage. Wait until their wives start writing them.

"William F. Fitzgerald, a prominent broker and well-known Bostonian, has been quoted as saying: 'This modern menace of divorce is rotting the core of our civilization and spreading rapidly its disintegrating destruction.'

"High sounding words—but what do they mean? And how about it? Divorce, as a matter of fact, is not the destruction of marriage. It only reasserts the couples. O. K. Chesterton, in his paradoxical style, once remarked that divorce is not separation, but remarriage. The more and fewer brass buttons about that. It will expedite the whole divorce business, if we insist upon making marriage easy and divorce harder.

"We feminists of the West were glad to note that your last legislature passed an act whereby probate court judges may hear divorces cases. There'll be less formality and by. Look into the past of each applicant. Those not of good associates who should never be permitted to marry.

"Then, after you have made marriage hard, make divorce easy—oh, very easy.

"It is a crime against decency for two people who have ceased to love to live together. Children born of such unions are ill-fated. Lack of love, or lack of respect, should be grounds enough for divorce—incompatability we might call it. Consider the unfortunate children condemned to live in the atmosphere created by wretched, unoccngenial parents.

"DEGRADING AND STUPID."

"It is a stupid law which decrees that a divorced woman may not correct their mistake if she improves a mistake why, in the name of common sense, can they not acknowledge it, dissolve it—and try again? Neither a man nor woman can do their best when married to a mate for whom they're no love. It's degrading. And, from an economic point of view, it is stupid. Give them freedom, and permit them the happiness that is essential for their intellectual development.

"Of the two evils — loveless marriage or free love alliance — I'd condone the illicit passion. For what is a loveless marriage except legalized prostitution?

"Morality is admittedly on the decline. Nothing will send it tobogganing downhill faster than the smug attitude of our self-styled reformers, who insist upon making marriage easy and divorce harder.

"We feminists of the West were glad to note that your last legislature passed an act whereby probate court judges may hear divorces cases. There'll be less formality and fewer brass buttons about that. It will expedite the whole divorce business, if we

MANNING CHALLENGED BY EVANS

Both Democrats, Seeking G. O. P. Nomination, He Declares

PARTY BLUDGEONED BY ITS ENEMIES

Lawyer Would Debate All Issues in Contest for Court Clerk

In his first appeal to the Republicans of Suffolk county, Attorney Ralph H. Evans of East Boston, who is seeking the Republican nomination for clerk of the Superior Court, addressed a challenge, last night, to the Mannings—John P. and John T.—and both Democratic candidates, to meet him on the stump before the voters beginning Tuesday and continuing until the primaries.

"I am a Republican I have always been a Republican and it is to the voters of this party that I direct my appeal at this time. It is high time that Suffolk county members of my party awake to the fact that they are being politically bludgeoned by those who would nominate enrolled Democrats to carry our standard in local contests for office.

RAPS DEMOCRATS.

"The Boston Herald, supposed organ of the party, in an editorial printed Saturday, urges the nomination of John P. Manning, Democrat, the present incumbent, as the Republican candidate to succeed himself as clerk of the Superior Criminal Court.

"At the same time the Herald advises that the voters punish one John T. Manning, also a Democrat, who is charged with attempting to 'horn in' on the contest through similarity in names, by ignoring his candidacy entirely.

"The Boston Herald and several so-called leaders of the party in and about Boston will awake soon to the realization that there is a real Republican in the fight and in to stay.

"I intend to go after these Democrats who would filch the Republican designation while the backs of the voters are turned. Beginning Tuesday night I intend to wage an active campaign for the Republican nomination for clerk of the Suffolk Superior Criminal courts.

WORLD WAR VET.

"Mud-slinging will be absolutely taboo as far as I am concerned. I believe an attorney should be elected clerk of courts. Here and now I invite—I challenge—the Mannings and all others seeking the office to discuss from the platform with me before the voters all issues pertaining to the primary and election."

Attorney Evans is a veteran of the World War, a graduate of Boston University Law School and a practicing attorney associated with Francis Jugins and Thomas Murphy in the Sears building. He was influenced to stand as a candidate by a group of powerful Republicans who are fighting to wrest the office from the Democrats who have held it for two score years.

GUNBOATS TO CLEAN UP YANKTSE DISTRICT

Washington, Aug. 26 (By the Associated Press).—Orders directing gunboats of foreign powers, including the United States, to proceed to the Yangtse district in China, to exterminate bands of disorganized soldiers, were said by naval officials to have been issued under the international agreement establishing the Yangtse River patrol. Under this agreement expeditions may be initiated by the senior officer of the patrol, whenever in his judgment the lives and property of foreign nations are in danger.

LEAGUE ACCEPTS U. S. RUSSIAN RELIEF OFFER

Geneva, Aug. 26 (By the Associated Press).—The League of Nations has formally accepted the American Relief Administration's offer to feed Russian refugees in Constantinople for four months and to contribute $25,000 toward their evacuation, upon the condition that the League raises $26,000 for evacuation expenses.

AMOSKEAG MILLS REOPEN TOMORROW

Manchester, N. H., Aug. 26.—The Amoskeag Company will open the lower weave room of No. 11 mill and the carding, spinning, dressing and spooling departments of the Amory mill Monday.

Chief of Police M. J. Healy announced he will direct the union Labor Day parade.

PROMPT CALL SAVES WOMAN

Attleboro, Aug. 27—Miss Doris Alger, operator at the Norton Telephone Exchange, saved the life of Mrs. Joseph Todoski when she put through an emergency call to special officer George L. Smith, who hurried to the Todoski home and found the woman unconscious, with black marks on her throat, inflicted, according to the police, by her husband, who was arrested on charges of drunkenness and disturbance of the peace.

Neighbors say Todoski came home crazed with drink, and assaulted his wife. Her screams attracted the attention of a passing patrolman, who notified Miss Alger at the telephone office. Physicians were summoned after Todoski had been locked up and Mrs. Todoski will suffer no lasting effects from the pummelling.

She refused to bring further charges against her husband, who was fined $5 for drunkenness and $10 for disturbance of the peace.

BURNED, PUTS OUT FIRE IN GARAGE

A. W. Griffin, chauffeur for Galen Stone, broker, of No. 140 Buckminster road, Brookline, was burned about the neck, face and hands yesterday when a fire started in the garage where he was working. He put out the blaze before arrival of the fire apparatus.

LOOM FIXERS WILL GO BACK

Lawrence, Aug. 26.—A general determination of striking operatives to return to work despite the efforts of their leaders was forecasted today with the announcement that loom fixers affiliated with the American Federation of Textile Operatives had voted to accept the Pacific Mills' peace offer.

With only two large mills, the Everett and Plymouth, still holding out for the wage cut that precipitated the strike last March, the belief that the end of the struggle was in sight was prevalent in this city today.

Tip loom fixers were the first unit to break away from the joint conference of three unions. Their action is expected to be followed by other organizations. The American Federation of Textile Operatives is affiliated with the One Big Union, and has rejected the peace offer.

The mule spinners and the One Big Union have not accepted the offer as yet, but the mule spinners have called a meeting for Sunday. A meeting of the joint conference of the three unions involved in the strike was set for today.

No definite word has come from the Everett or Plymouth Mills, but it is said an announcement is surely forthcoming to the effect they will abolish the wage cut.

PILOTS OF GLIDERS ARE LIKE BIRDS

Secrets of German Success in New Air Records Are Revealed

EXPERIMENTS WERE MADE DURING WAR

Study of Eagles and Other Birds Brought Them Near Perfection

Brussels, Aug. 26—An eagle's brain and an eagle's wings were the models used by German scientists and inventors responsible for the remarkable success of a German made glider which, piloted by Herr Hentzen, student aviator, remained in the air for more than three hours last Thursday.

The success of this glider makes mechanical perfection secondary and the pilot the main factor in flying.

The German glider which, by its performance the other day, revolutionized flying, was the result according to an Advertiser informant of the thorough plans of the German general staff. These plans have been worked out by mathematicians, scientists and aviators over a period of six years and were started two years after the first German offensive in August, 1914.

PILOT A "BIRD."

This revolution in the conquest of the air makes of the pilot a veritable bird. He becomes endowed with a kind of sixth sense, highly sensitive so that he becomes as familiar with every current of air, its strength and its direction as is an eagle or a seagull.

The experiments which resulted in the new glider were begun at Magdeburg. The personnel of the experimental force included five of the most expert chemists, aviators and mathematicians in the army.

The bird was called "The National Institute of Aeronautics Studies." It utilized the latest experiments with aeroplanes designed and carried production to a point because the men the most capable of aerial navigation in the air. These flights were made to fix in vast halls designed by wires and their every move was recorded by hundreds of moving picture machines.

The experiments added into minutest detail and formed the essential part of the Lorin aviation, and of the famous and the motor of the fuselage of that special aeroplane.

The first significant thing noticed was the effect had under observation when in flight had its point of angle from the direction of the flight. This was the first intimation that every part in flight from its way through the air.

IT FLIES WAY IN AIR.

With these observations, the wings were designed exactly as an eagle's wings, namely that they became curved from the front edge to the rear and sharply when the wing and tail supports in direct to its contact with the air.

Then experiments were made to develop an air force in the same plane. With combined machines and propellers so that equalized the pilot facing this was brought about.

This achieved the plane flew in a way as similar to that as birds as possible. From these studies of the birds in flight they learned that passing of wings into necessity the observations had taught them the use of the wings of birds control easily the currents of air.

The final factor in the process of the glider was the discovery of the tables in Germany in which the currents were covered. These upward currents were invaluable in the first stages of experiment because they gave that progress thing necessary to the aviator until he had attained sufficient air mastery to learn other currents.

PUBLIC UTILITY SHARES LIVELY

Consolidated Gas Rises Seven Points to New High Level

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

New York, Aug. 26.—Activity and strength in public utility shares, led by Consolidated Gas which rose seven points to a new high level, featured dealings in the short session on the stock exchange today. The balance of the list showed irregularity because of week-end profit-taking.

Railroad shares were inclined to ease off. Tobacco shares continued in urgent demand, especially the high priced issues which are considered rich mens stocks. General business showed contraction owing to the absence of many people from the street. Some of the biggest commission houses are closed and have their customers to buy the copper and zinc stocks owing to the gradual contraction in supplies of the metals on hand.

Biggest brokerage houses look for a continuation of the constructive market this week.

CONSOLIDATED SOARS.

Consolidated Gas advanced in a sensational manner. At one time it showed nine points advance over the preceding close. At the top figure of 140 it ran into profit-taking sales. Some large financial deals have been made in the recent rise in this issue by a number of people in the financial district. Politicians are also declared to have increased their bank accounts through the rise.

The coal shortage is expected to cause an increased consumption of gas for heating purposes. Other gas stocks were also higher. People's Gas, which recently resumed dividends, seemed to be scarce according to brokers who were trying to buy the stock yesterday. Good things are heard about Brooklyn Edison.

One rumor says the dividend will be raised from 12 to 14 shares annually. Brooklyn Union Gas and North American moved into new high ground.

H. M. Mallinson stock was active because of the confirmation by the head of the company that the management proposed taking over some other companies in the same line of business.

YIELDING 8 PER CENT.

Liggett & Myers and American Tobacco moved into new territory. The former rose ten points and would seem to be in high position. Some of the directors contemplate increasing disbursements to shareholders. Good judges of quoted securities said investment stocks believe that American Tobacco is still selling out of line with other companies at present prices. It yields about eight per cent. on the investment. Earnings are showing increases. Tobacco shares are also considered to be selling out of line with other high priced tobaccos.

Strong accumulation of Continental Can is said to have been going on recently by people in position to know what is going on. Directors meet for dividend action September 5. Earnings are declared to be showing such improvement as to justify expectations of the dividend being resumed on a $7 or $8 basis. The stock rose more than two points today. It is considered to possess better possibilities of market appreciation than American Can.

MOTORS ENCOURAGING.

The fact that the motor business is continuing at a rate better than expected by insiders is encouraging people to purchase motor accessory shares. Betterment in the business of Stewart Warner is declared to be such as to warrant expectation of an increase in the dividend from $3 to $4 annually.

Irregularity prevailed in the bond market. Liberties were firmer and Scandanavian issues were strong. Other foreign governments were easier. Industrials rails and Industrials showed but little change. Dealers are confident of a continuation of the rise in high grade rails owing to the scarcity of supplies and the prospect of very few new offerings. Few new bonds are expected to come out because most corporations have been provided with funds.

New top prices were made by Cerro De Pasco convertible 6s, Green Bay & Western debenture 8s and Third avenue adjustment 5s.

Bond Notes

Adams sold temporary reverse loan of $150,000, 6 per cent., maturing September 20, 1922, to Merchants National Bank, Boston, at 2.35 per cent. discount.

Brunswick Village Corporation, Brunswick, Me., will receive proposals until 8 p. m., September 1, for $22,000 4½ per cent. coupon funding bonds, dated July 1, 1922, and maturing in each of years 1923 to 1932 inclusive.

Westerville Fire District, Westerville, N. H., awarded $60,000, 4 per cent., water and electric loan bonds, dated July 1, 1922, maturing each of years 1923 to 1942 inclusive, to E. M. Rollins & Sons at 98.27.

Answers to Investors

$8,000 INVESTMENT

C. E. L.—I recently received $8,000 from a matured mortgage and want to invest it in bonds or notes that will mature not later than two years hence, as by that time I expect to need the money in my business for expansion. Please name a number of high grade short term bonds.

Ans.—We suggest that you buy $1,000 each of the following: Hocking Valley 6s, due March, 1924, yield 5.50 per cent.; Humble Oil 7s, March, 1923, yield 6.30 per cent.; Gulf Oil 6s, July, 1922, yield 5.20 per cent.; American Telephone 6s, February, 1924, yield 4.87 per cent.; Texas Corporation 7s, September, 1924, yield 6.25 per cent.; Sears-Roebuck 7s, October, 1923, yield 5.80 per cent.; Texas Company 7s, March, 1923, yield 6.30 per cent.; Cudahy Packing 7s, July, 1923, yield 4.80 per cent., and Canadian Northern 6½s, December, 1924, yield 5.14 per cent.

VERY GOOD SWITCH.

J. H. R.—Would you advise me to switch from 10 shares Kelly-Springfield common at 40 into 10 shares American La France Fire Engine as the proceeds from Kelly-Springfield sold at that?

Ans.—The switch may be desirable. You would get your money into a stock that is paying dividends. Another is present yield. American La France yields better than 7½ per cent. Your Kelly-Springfield sells under 5 per cent. You have more than enough to cover a purchase of 35 shares American La France. The company, however, is in a line that, although showing increasing sales, is intensely competitive, and has yet to show a profit. Kelly-Springfield common, although paying dividends, has a speculative attraction not possessed by the other.

NO NEED TO SWITCH

M. T. G.—Would you sell Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, due 1927. Do you think it would be advisable to sell this and buy $1,000 Allied Fuel & Gas 6s, due 1936? I can get 95 for the Columbia Gas & Electric 5s and 98 for the Allied Fuel 6s, a gain of 3 points. Which is the more desirable investment for a working man?

Ans.—We should regard Columbia Gas & Electric 5s as a better issue than United Fuel & Gas 6s, in fact, unless you want to get a higher grade bond than New York Telephone 4s, due 1939, we should advise you to hold your Columbia Gas & Electric bonds.

A SPECULATIVE BOND.

L. W. D.—I would appreciate your opinion of Cerro de Pasco convertible 6s as a speculative investment.

Ans.—Cerro de Pasco convertible 6s represents what, in our opinion, is one of the best bonds in the speculative list, but, unfortunately, they have had a big advance and yield now only 5 per cent. The bonds are callable at any time on sixty days' notice by sinking fund at 105, and whenever you can get anywhere around the redemption price they are all right. They are convertible any time up to and including January, 1931, or if called for redemption until the redemption date, at the rate of 20 shares of stock for $1,000 principal amount. Purchase price does not affect obligation of the company not secured by mortgages. In the event of the bondholders' committee of the company's real property or pledge of stocks owned, this issue must be secured by a prior lien.

NORTH AMERICAN PREFERRED.

Miss T. S.—Friends of mine who are holders of North American preferred stock think it is high grade and well secured. I do not like to advise them on their own stock unless I should like to have your opinion about it.

Ans.—North American preferred is a high-grade public utility preferred stock traded in on the New York Stock Exchange. At present prices it yields about 7 per cent. from its $3 dividend. Its par value is $50 a share. It is a good thing not to rely upon the advice of friends for your investments, but in this instance they were right.

EMPIRE GAS 7¼s.

A. J. F.—What are the merits of Empire Gas & Fuel 7¼s, due 1937? Will you give me some information about them? I had considered buying them as a permanent investment.

Ans.—Empire Gas & Fuel first series convertible 7¼s are listed as "A," due 1937, $40,000,000 outstanding, are second-grade public utility bonds, and are secured by, written by a very strong syndicate. They are a first mortgage subject to $13,250,000 underlying closed mortgages on all properties and a first lien on all stocks of subsidiaries. They are redeemable at 110 to 1937. They are issued in $100, $500 and $1,000 pieces and convertible into 8 shares of common stock at par value. Interest is payable May and November.

THIRD AVENUE 5S.

B. S.—I have $1,000 Third Avenue Railway adjustment income 5s, due 1960. I have had the bond for some time, and the first interest I received in five years was paid this Spring. I am a hard-working man, a tailor by trade. If I should sell my bond now I would lose about $150. Should I keep it, or buy something else?

Ans.—This bond, like any other income bond, is practically nothing but a preferred stock. Non-payment of interest is not a charge upon the company's solvency. The interest is payable only when earned and declared, April and October. The company's earnings and prospects are better now than at any time during the non-payment period. You are advised to hold the bond.

HAS $500 TO INVEST.

A. W.—My broker tells me that with $500 I have to invest I should buy several bonds in $100 pieces. He claims that the small investor should diversify just as much as the wealthy investor. Do you approve of this? What bonds would you suggest for me?

Ans.—Diversification increases security of principal. If you chose high-grade bonds those in small denominations are excellent for the investor of moderate means. For your $500 we would suggest Chicago, Burlington & Quincy first and refunding 5s, 1971; Great Northern general 5½s, 1952; New York Central refunding and improvement 5s, 2013; New England Telephone & Telegraph first 5s, 1941, and Armour & Co. convertible 7s, 1930.

WANTS TO BE CONSERVATIVE.

H. K.—As a professional man, I do not believe in speculation. I made a small profit whenever I could get $1,000 together I would buy a good bond with a fair yield. I want to be conservative. On your advice I bought New York Edison 6½s and New York Telephone 6s. I have another $1,000 to invest. How about French Government 7½s?

Ans.—To be conservative, you should not buy bonds which are directly influenced by the settlement of German and Inter-Allied war debts. Under pressure of recent events the French bonds sold off radically. They might be all right for a business man who can watch the market carefully, but not for a professional man who wants to be conservative. You have two high-grade domestic bonds. Why not buy a third, like New York Central refunding and improvement 5s, 2013?

BUSINESS MAN'S LIST.

W. F.—I am a business man. I have invested in high-yield, somewhat speculative bonds. I would appreciate your advice as to how to meet the danger line I have gone. The bonds are $4,000 United States of Mexico 4s, and $2,000 each Cuban-American Sugar 8s, Erie general 4s, St. Louis-San Francisco income 6s, Oklahoma Gas & Electric 7½s and Republic of Chile 8s of 1941. I have other income from real estate.

Ans.—United States of Mexico 4s are the lowest priced issue. The chance of their paying interest which was defaulted in 1914 seems very slight. Should Congress suspend a bill, subsequently to be presented to Congress, making interest payments on bonds legal and obligatory in Mexico. With the exception of this bond, you have made fair selections. Cuban-American Sugar 8s are probably good. The Erie general 4s seem in an upward trend. Though interest is paid on St. Louis-San Francisco income 6s only when earned, payments have been made regularly since the reorganization in 1916. Both your Oklahoma Gas & Electric and Republic of Chile bonds are good.

Coal Strike vs. Standard Oils

• The failure to settle the anthracite coal strike has developed into an acute situation which will affect by far the greater part of the country. Relief must be afforded somehow and lacking coal—what then?

Kerosene and similar oil byproducts must be used for heating and colossal earnings are consequently in sight for the big substantial companies.

Our specially prepared letter on the subject should prove exceptionally illuminating to purchasers of oil stocks.

FLAPPERS MUST LET 'EM DOWN

Short Skirts Officially Taboo in Kansas City Government

9 INCHES FROM GROUND IS LIMIT

Male Employes Couldn't Do Efficient Work Is Reason for Ruling

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 26.—Ankles in Kansas City are a total loss.

At least so the 900 girl employes of the Kansas city's municipal government—hospital nurses, stenographers, clerks, police matrons and other department employes—are concerned.

For Lieutenant Walter E. Fitzsimmons, police inspector of uniforms and authority extraordinary on "how long should a woman's dress be to be still a dress," has ruled that "nine inches from the ground is modest, proper and classy."

As a result Lieutenant Fitzsimmons has the feminine wrath of the city swirling about his head in angry protest—and Fitzsimmons is only thirty-two years old.

The police inspector's ruling followed an edict officials of the Benton exchange of the Kansas City Telephone Co. issued last week, in which it was ruled that girl operators cannot wear dresses which are higher than two inches below the knee.

The order followed a display of dimples beneath the sheer silks of girl operators of the Benton exchange.

"PINK THINGS" BANNED.

The order further states that "pink things" must not appear beneath the waists and open-work sweaters now affected by flapperdom.

"But the two inch below the knee ruling isn't modest," Lieutenant Fitzsimmons announced in making his ruling.

His answer to the problem of the day—"How long should a woman's skirt be, and what is modesty in dress?"—came in an official bulletin issued to all city employes.

"Skirts of female employes must not be higher than nine inches above the ground.

"Waists must not be too low cut and under no circumstances may the garments worn beneath waists be seen.

"Sleeves must be of modest length."

As a result flapperdom here has labeled Lieutenant Fitzsimmons "a dub."

"But I'm right—absolutely right," the police lieutenant defends himself, asking that the women's clubs of the city take up the matter and make a ruling.

"I'm not so old that I can't admire a well-turned ankle and a little bit more, but I believe that the display of too much feminine charm wrecks office efficiency.

"Male employes, thrown in contact with girls who wear modern costumes, spend more time in thought than in work.

FLAPPERS' ARGUMENT FAILS.

"The flappers' argument that modern clothing is designed to meet present-day needs sounds good on paper, but it doesn't work out in reality.

"Employers the country over know this. Some of them are too timid to rule on the matter—it is costing them dollars in lost time each day."

The telephone company here is experiencing but little protest over its dress ruling.

Skirts, the company found, were growing shorter despite the Paris edict of "more cloth."

The "two-inch below the knee" ruling followed this discovery.

In addition the telephone company ruled that "pink things" were designed to be worn—not seen; that open-work sweaters might be designed for comfort, but not for modesty.

Telephone officials say their girls accepted the order without protest.

"But they won't stand for the city's ruling to its girl employes," the telephone company says. "Nine inches from the ground," our girls say, "puts dresses back to grandmother's day," the operators state.

TUMULTYS SAIL FOR DAUGHTER'S BEDSIDE

New York, Aug. 26.—Joseph P. Tumulty, former private secretary to former President Wilson, with Mrs. Tumulty, sailed on the Majestic today to be with their daughter, Marion, who is in a critical condition in Obermammergau suffering from pneumonia contracted while convalescing from injuries received recently in an automobile accident.

VASSAR GRAD TO WED ATTLEBORO JEWELER

Mansfield, Aug. 27.—The engagement has been announced of Miss Alice Marjorie Rathbun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Rathbun and a graduate of Vassar College and the New England Conservatory of Music, to Howard Sweet, a manufacturing jeweler of Attleboro.

Miss Rathbun is woman's champion tennis player of Bristol county.

Nurses Must Wear Coats Paris Length

Fall River, Aug. 26.

NURSES employed by the District Nursing Association are agog today as the result of orders announcing that their uniform coats must not be shorter than eight inches from the ground. The coats were never supposed to be shorter than that, but some of them have crept up, inch by inch, until the matter was called to the attention of the directors. When some nurses protested, Attorney Richard P. Borden, a member of the board, answered, "I have just returned from Paris where skirts are longer."

CLOSES BITTER PRIMARY FIGHT

Ku Klux Klan Candidate Leads in Texas Democratic Returns

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 26.—One of the bitterest campaigns in the memory of the old politicians in Texas ended tonight, when the polls of the Democratic primary closed at 7 o'clock. Discussion of the Ku Klux Klan and injection of personalities increased the bitterness and the feeling of partisans.

The Klan question promises to continue an issue until the November election. The Republicans have put a full State ticket in the field and in their platform denounced the Klan and declared it controlled a large part, if not all, of the Democratic party machinery in the State. The Democrats hold their state convention in San Antonio September 6, and will adopt a platform then.

Earle B. Mayfield, State Railroad Commissioner, and James E. Ferguson, former governor, candidates for nomination for United States Senator, each maintained he would be the successful man when full returns are counted. Democratic nomination is equivalent to election in Texas.

Incomplete returns from fifty-five counties out of 245 gave Mayfield 44,433 and Ferguson, 36,897.

Mayfield is generally credited with being the Klan candidate. Ferguson opposed the Klan. Mayfield has the endorsement of the anti-saloon league and Ferguson is an advocate of light wines and beer.

SEIZED IN ALLEGED $60,000 SWINDLE

Denver, Aug. 26—Harry D. White, said to be wanted by Federal Post-office Inspector H. E. Graham, on a charge of swindling S. Tuch, of Plainfield, N. J., of $60,000 at Miami, Florida, on March 17, 1921, was arrested today by agents of District Attorney Van Cise's office trailing him, it is alleged $1,000,000 "confidence ring."

White, it is alleged, also went under the name of Sam Bennett, Harry Witting, H. Lafler and Harry Whitney. He was arrested when he attempted to cash a $100 money order said to have been sent him by another alleged swindler.

CANNOT SPOON AND DRIVE CAR

Attleboro, Aug. 26.—It takes two arms to drive an automobile—or to love a girl. So ruled Judge Charles C. Hagerty in the case of Fred E. Williams of Quincy, who was operating his automobile while one of his arms was around the waist of his fair young companion.

Williams was fined $5 on a technical charge of failing to show his registration card, in addition to receiving a severe reprimand from the judge.

Kimball H. Sargent of Plainville also was arraigned for allowing an impediment which interfered with the operation of an automobile. According to the testimony of Officer Fred Dietz, the impediment was a young woman who had one hand on the steering wheel.

Imagine that girls—an impediment!

FIND 'DAD' MOULTON'S WILL IN HIS WATCH

Palo Alto, Cal., Aug. 26.—When executors of the estate of E. W. "Dad" Moulton, noted athletic trainer at Stanford University, opened his gold watch, they found his last will and testament written on a circular piece of paper and pasted on the inside of the case.

The will left an estate valued at $4,000 to his widow, Ida M. Moulton. Moulton, who died July 18, was the dean of Pacific coast trainers.

$1,000 REWARD, GOO GOO! PATRON SHOUTS

An offer of a $1,000 reward to the O'Brien campaign committee if District Attorney O'Brien can prove Patron is "Coakley's candidate," was made by William J. Patron, candidate for district attorney, last night. On the other hand, Patron calls O'Brien the go goo candidate. "His attacks on a great fraternal order have lost him the support of all decent men," Patron added.

'GO EAST,' TO BE LOWDEN ADVICE

Illinois' Ex-Governor Says New England Is Neglecting Farms

By Universal Service.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 26.—Three questions bothered ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, when he left here today for home, after a two weeks' vacation.

"First," he said, indignantly, "who has my hat? I brought only one with me, and someone stole it while I was speaking at a farmers' meeting in Massachusetts.

"Second, why don't Connecticut farmers raise more stuff on their 25,000 or more farms?

"Third, who in the East can sell me a Holstein cow or bull that is better than I have on my farm in Illinois?"

He did not get an answer to any question and returned to Illinois much disappointed.

The Governor broached a subject which is decidedly new. Said he:

"The agricultural possibilities in New York, Connecticut and other New England States are wonderful, but they are not being realized. Some of our mid-West folks are going further Westward, searching for new farm lands. I am going home to suggest to them that were they to come East and take up some of the abandoned or inadequately worked farm lands, they would find it to their great advantage."

FACES JAIL IF HE BEATS WIFE

Lawrence, Aug. 26.—"If he lays a hand on his wife I will give him the longest jail sentence that I can," said Judge John A. Maloney today, continuing the case of Alexander Mason, wealthy property owner, until Tuesday. Mason is charged with beating his wife, Catherine.

Mrs. Mason testified her husband treated her. She also alleges her husband is unduly interested in a Boston woman.

Mason alleges his wife tried to poison him, but although a bichloride of mercury tablet was found in the coffee used by the man, police do not believe Mrs. Mason had anything to do with it.

SAYS LEAGUE OBJECT IS 'ONE BIG UNION'

Chicago, Aug. 26—(By Associated Press)—Amalgamation of all labor unions was declared to be the principal object of the Trades Union Educational League as outlined by William Z. Foster, secretary and chief executive of the organization, today, before what was termed the second annual meeting of the league.

He plainly declared the membership was composed of Syndicalists, Anarchists, Communists and other radicals.

WOUNDED VETS AT BRIDGEWATER OUTING

More than 1,000 disabled veterans will attend a barbecue and reunion under the joint auspices of the Veterans of America and the American Legion at Bridgewater today. At least ten thousand persons are expected to attend the events.

The wounded "vets" are from the West Roxbury, Parker Hill, Chelsea Naval Hospital, Chelsea Marine Hospital, Adams Hospital and men from Groton and Lakeville. Mayor Curley is scheduled to speak at the celebration. A 1,400 pound ox will be roasted for the noonday meal.

STRUCK GIRL ON HEAD WITH BOTTLE

Mary Sulfaro, ten, of No. 194 West Fourth street, South Boston, was injured when a man, under the influence of liquor, struck her on the head with a bottle.

Joseph Limbo, eight, of No. 1 Acton street, South End, was struck by an automobile on Washington street. The machine passed over his right leg.

Edward Quinn, six, balanced himself on the window sill of his home, No. 608 Dorchester avenue. He lost his balance and fell. He received lacerations of the forehead and possible internal injuries.

SPRINGFIELD GAS CO. ORDERS BRITISH COAL

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 26.—Alarmed over the possibility of a coal shortage as a result of the strike, the Springfield Gas Light Company has booked orders for several thousand tons of English coal, it was announced tonight.

About 1,000 tons were obtained direct from lighters in New York harbor. Officials said large orders have been placed with American concerns, but that it is difficult to get delivery.

BETHLEHEM STEEL PLANS EXPANSION

Officials of Bethlehem Steel Corporation have stated general details of proposed additions at Sparrows Point works in Baltimore for which $2,500,000 was recently authorized. The further facilities will include a 250-ton tilting open-hearth furnace added to No. 3 open-hearth, making a unit of five 250-ton open-hearth furnaces; four 100-ton stationary furnaces added to present five 70-ton rebuilt stationary furnaces, increasing the ingot output to about 600,000 tons per year.

LET DOCTOR TRENT READ YOUR FUTURE IN THE CARDS

EXPERT PREDICTS FATES FOR ADVERTISER READERS

Awards, Totalling $40 a Day, Go to Best Fortune - Holders — See What Kismet Has in Store

Fortune That Won This Girl a Gown

MISS EDNA M. LARSON,
No. 11 Kenwood Road, Everett.

A POSITION of high social importance and considerable money and prestige are ahead, according to the cards. There is a little trouble connected with a dark man and a dark woman, both older than you. You will be soon rid of the annoyance, though. In about five years you will marry and move to another city. Your life will be full of pleasure and leisure. Later in life you will be active in charitable societies and make a name for yourself in the political world.

Here are some of the fortunes as read by Dr. Trent, from the fortune blanks submitted by Advertiser readers. As many readings as space permits are printed daily and to the best woman's fortune is given a Peggy Paige gown. There are six other awards, which are made only in the Daily Advertiser, totaling $40 a day. Fill out your coupon and hear what the future has in store for you.

P. C., Wellaston.—While you may not have luck in little things, your luck in big things will always hold. Your best dreams are going to materialize and a wish concerning a love affair is coming true very soon. A dark man will cause a lot of annoyance through jealousy but you have nothing to fear from him. Two girls will have something queer to tell you when you see them next.

J. P. M., Camp Devens.—More than one triumph is ahead, if you do not frustrate them by your indifference. You do not appreciate your own ability and another man is not giving you a fair show. You will meet a charming girl on a pleasure excursion who will grow to mean a lot to you. You will propose twice to her and the second time she will accept.

Miss M. B. Pittsfield.—A man you like a great deal is only interested in you platonically. You would not care so much for him on further acquaintance. Another man will supersede him in your affections. The cards predict two marriages for you and four children. Your second husband will be well-known in the theatrical world.

Miss A. E. T., Brockton.—A woman friend is wondering if you are offended. She meant no harm in a letter she wrote and is hoping for a reply. You will hear something about a friend soon that is not true as you will later find out for yourself. You will know all the thrills of life and some of the sorrows too, but you will be frunate in most of your undertakings.

H. D., Framingham.—You need not worry over a business problem for it is going to fall through. You will have another offer which will mean more money and pleasanter surroundings. Be careful about receiving the attentions of a dark man you will meet and learn to know during business hours. Gossip will start easily and he is not the man for you. You will marry well, but late in life.

Mrs. V. M. D., Brighton.—A possession you value will be borrowed by a friend and returned in a damaged condition. This annoyance will be somewhat overcome by an unexpected gift from a relative. You will benefit by a journey even though it will have to be cut short by news from home. A man, a relative of yours, is going to decide that you are in the right about a money matter and conform to your views.

Mrs. L. L. W., Wenham.—A number of small worries and an illness will come into your life, but on the whole you will be fortunate in your undertakings. Do not accept a business proposition regarding investments before you have sought reputable advice.

Mrs. E. S. Methuen.—You're going to regain your faith in a man. He will prove his real worth soon and you will be glad you did not follow your impulses a few months ago. You will have a new relative soon, and soon after lose one by death. This latter will necessitate a change. A wish connected with a young girl is coming true.

M. V. E., Lynn.—You will make a great deal of money before you die, although the near future predicts a slight financial embarrassment. You will enter politics, only to find you are not suited for it. You will afterwards devote your attention entirely to your home and your office and lead a very contented life.

M. L. K., Lowell.—A man will annoy you so much with his attentions that you will finally become nervously ill over it. Another man will fall in love with you soon after and the other man will then go out of your life. You are needlessly jealous over a blonde woman who is only interested in your friends in a business way.

M. S., Littleton.—Your life is very limited at present and you would do best to go away for a while before you decide on a certain question relating to marriage. You will make many new acquaintances soon. A friend will make a gift for your birthday. It will be a surprise and a very beautiful gift. Two men are thinking of you. One is more deeply interested in you than you realize.

EVERETT GIRL WINS 'PEGGY' GOWN

THAT THEY ALL KNOW.

A good trade mark for the Peggy Paige gowns would be, "What Every Woman Knows."

For the artistry, delicacy and fine materials of these supreme modiste's creations have set the entire female population of the United States aglow with a desire to have an individual gown for each individual woman.

The "Peggy Paiges" have swept to overwhelming success because every wearer is an advertisement. They are that rare thing, a gown that fits the style of every woman, be she tall or short, thin or stout, light or dark, dashing or prim.

In the first place, they are born in Paris, on the Rue de la Paix, in the brains of the artists who dream out women's gowns in colors and line and fabric.

A Peggy Paige is in itself a guarantee of the last word from Paris, the capital of the world's fashions.

There is only one thing that keeps every woman from having one. That is the incident of expense. Peggy Paige gowns are expensive. They run in price from close to the century mark up as high as the individual purchaser cares to go.

IS THERE SUCH?

Lives there a woman with soul so dead who cannot get a thrill from the sight and the feel of a beautiful gown? There doesn't. And the woman of discernment who can afford it makes a straight bee-line for Peggy Paige gowns when she is out to refurbish her wardrobe.

And the woman of discernment who can't afford it, just takes it out in wistful wishing for a Peggy Paige gown.

Now the Daily Advertiser is giving the women of discernment the chance to procure a Peggy Paige gown absolutely one cent of expense, whether she can afford it or not. All she needs is a little luck. If the cards read that she shall have a splendid future, then the Daily Advertiser makes a free gift of such a gown she has longed for as a guarantee of future success.

Fourteen women have already been the recipients of gowns as gifts of Fortune and the Daily Advertiser. Shortly after the sun rises tomorrow morning, fourteen women could don Peggy Paige gowns in Boston and the vicinity and awake the envy of every woman they met. They are the winners of the Daily Advertiser's "luckiest fortune contest."

And by the same token, forty-two men and women could jingle five and ten dollar gold pieces in their pockets, because Fortune willed it so and the Daily Advertiser had commanded by the cards to make those six money gifts daily.

Women!

There are thirty-six Peggy Paige gowns waiting to be worn by that number of fortunate women whose future is most brightly colored by the cards.

Men and women!

There are six gifts amounting to $40 daily to be given to the lucky possessors of these bright hued futures forecast by the cards.

Follow directions.

Fill out the "luckiest fortune blank" as designated below.

And win a Peggy Paige gown or a money prize!

Good fortune hangs over your head. I see you in a lovely gown with gold coins clinking in your purse. The future is very bright for you if you but make the most of your opportunities.

Fill in that luckiest fortune blank today!

HOW TO FILL OUT YOUR FORTUNE BLANK

It's Easy to do—just read this.

How to get a Peggy Paige Dress or share in the $240.00 each week.

Shuffle a pack of playing cards. Take out the 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 in every suit. You will have 28 cards left. Lay them as they come from left to right; make up four rows of seven cards each, face up. The back shown is an example. In the space left in each square write in the name and number of the cards you have laid down, just as is shown in the blank. For example: Ace of clubs is "A C." Queen of Diamonds is "Q D." Ten of Hearts is "10-H," etc. You must use the Fortune Form. You may send in as many forms a day as you want to. Deal the cards differently for each form you send. Try as often as you want. Only you must use the Fortune Form with every deal. Put in envelope and send to Dr. A. J. Trent, Daily Advertiser, 209 Washington street, Boston. Mail at once.

You can try as often as you wish! Try every day! Get a Peggy Paige! One rule only—all trys must be on a form printed in the Daily or Sunday Advertiser. Forms printed every day for fifty days—send as many Fortune Forms as possible! Why not you? Win a dress or part of $240.00 each week.

JURORS TO PROBE HERRIN "MASSACRE"

Marion, Ill., Aug. 26 (By International News Service). — Evidence against more than 100 persons will be presented before the special grand jury which convenes here Monday to investigate the "Herrin massacre" in which seventeen men were killed.

Your Picture Is Not Necessary

IT is not necessary for candidates for Peggy Paige gowns to send their photographs with their fortunes. Winners will be promptly notified and can then send in their photos. Those who wish may send photos with their fortunes, but if they do not do so their chances of winning a gown are not in the least impaired.

CIRCUS TO PAY CHURCH DEBTS

Auto Parade Will Open 4-Day Mardi Gras in Quincy

That more than fifty decorated cars will appear in the Quincy automobile parade Thursday evening was the assertion made last night by the Rev. M. J. Cuddihy, rector of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point.

To pay off the church debt a four-day Mardi Gras on the grounds of the church at Washington and Pray streets, will be given. The affair opens at 6:30 Thursday evening, when the auto parade leaves the church grounds to wend its way through Quincy, Wollaston, Atlantic and Milton. Prizes will be awarded to the best decorated cars.

A miniature circus performance will be given every afternoon and evening and, as special features, boxing, wrestling and vaudeville acts will be staged. The affair will close on Labor Day night.

"MARY"

BY

ELENORE MEHERIN

MARY

THE STORY SO FAR

MARY KELLY wins the post of private secretary to HALL DAWSON, a dynamic and ruthless promoter with magnificent offices in the State Street district. The first big deal he puts over after Mary takes the job he gives her a bonus check for $100, which she finally accepts with some misgivings. On their return from a business trip to the suburbs DAWSON insists upon buying supper at the Ferncroft Inn. While there she sees MRS. DAWSON for the first time in her life.

MARY goes to watch the returning troops of the Yankee Division and runs into Pat Sullivan, a childhood sweetheart. The girl spends the next few weeks wondering if Pat will ever come back into her life. DAWSON is taken ill and sends for MARY to come to his home for business instructions. She is able to convince him that his affairs are being well taken care of at the office. DAWSON gives her elaborate praise for her ability. Riding down town next evening MARY sees Pat with another girl—a stranger.

She accepts an invitation to a party where Pat is to be present. She makes him jealous by dancing often with Jack Mahoney, a young millionaire. Later Pat gives her a rose. MARY promises to be at home at 7 the next evening for a 'phone call, but DAWSON is ill and she arrives just in time to answer the telephone—

This is the story to date. Now go on with it in
